FLORIDA HURRICANE DEATH TOLL MOUNTS HOURLY

WILL SAYS FARMER GETS RELIEF OVER RADIO EVERY NIGHT

(Special To The News)

NEW YORK, Sept. 20. — As I write it's pretty near farm relief time. About 8 o'clock every night they get relief over the radio. Tuesday night Smith marketed their surpluses at a profit for 'em. [illegible] night Hoover through co-operative marketing assisted them in payments on new cars. Then tonight Smith will take 'em in hand again.

But you notice nights when there is legitimate entertainment on the air and the candidates can't get on, why they don't seem to care what happens to the farmer.

So it looks to me like the candidates are trying to relieve the farmer of his vote instead of his debts.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

PA NEWC OBSERVES

Announcement made yesterday that Mrs. Grace Phillips Johnson has resigned as president of the board of directors of the New Castle Young Women's Christian Association will be received with deep regret by all members and friends of the association. During the 14 years that she was head of the association she was an important factor in its success. Due to the fact that she is out of the city much of the time, she asked to be relieved of the responsibility. It is indicated that her interest and support will be accorded the institution in the future as in the past, which is cheering news to the association.

New Castle Red Cross is taking subscriptions for relief work in Porto Rico and Florida. New Castle should respond at once to this call, as the need is urgent. Toll of the hurricane, according to reports so far received, is much greater than that of the hurricane of two years ago. Send your contribution to the Red Cross chapter at once.

Boys will be boys, and the older they get the more boyish they seem to be. At least that's the observation of Pa Newc up at The Castleton lobby. The delegates from the third-class cities up at The Castleton and the Cathedral would certainly amuse the folks back home if they could see them behaving now. They are having the time of their lives, and if anyone should tell you per chance that officials don't have fun, don't believe them.

Pa Newc observes: A number of dogs which are void of collars—convention delegates leaving town—more Westminster students arriving in town—the police car tearing down street at a fast rate—two cats on Washington street—another man with a brown derby, and a number of overcoats being worn at night.

Speaking of cold weather, Pa Newc observed a curious phenomenon this morning on Washington street. A man was wearing an overcoat and a muffler of the heavier sort. In fact, he was bundled up for fair. As he walked down street a young fellow passed him wearing no coat, his sleeves rolled up and his shirt open at the throat.

Well, a horse and buggy have been found and right in the heart of the city, too. That's the funny part about it. There is probably another outfit in the city, if it could be found. Don't forget. If you know of another one, send The News a line to the horse-and-buggy detective.

A farmer reports that the fall threshing time is not what it used to be. The more modern machinery has reduced the amount of labor needed to one-half. Some time ago the farmer had to spend half of the fall and winter "neighboring" with the other fellow to get threshings done.

There has been at least one convention in the country where something was really done and a conclusion reached other than who the next year's president will be and where the convention will take place. New Castle had the honor of that convention and it was the conference of the third-class cities executives. Did you

Chairman Of Palm Beach County Red Cross Says Death Toll Of 400 Conservative

THOUSANDS NEED IMMEDIATE RELIEF

Damage In One Florida County Alone Is Thirty Million; Search For Bodies

By CARTER BROOKE JONES
International News Service Staff Correspondent

MIAMI, Fla., Sept. 20.—The estimate of Howard Selby, chairman of the Palm Beach county Red Cross relief commission, that 400 lives were lost in the Florida hurricane was regarded as conservative by other relief workers today. He also said there were at least 15,000 homeless, 8,000 of them utterly destitute, and placed property damage in Palm Beach county alone at $30,000,000.

Most of the casualties occurred along the shores of Lake Okeechobee, where the colossal wind drove the waters into the fields for miles around, flooding towns and farmhouses. These victims were swept from the wreckage of their homes and drowned. Many of the bodies of those missing have not been recovered.

Forty Bodies Found

Belle Glade, a village of 500, center of a truck forming community in the Everglades, 45 miles west of Palm Beach, was a heavy sufferer. Forty bodies had been recovered today from the swollen dikes surrounding the little town. Reports of missing persons led to the belief that many more bodies would be recovered from the muddy waters.

South Bay had retrieved 140 bodies from the flood and the town of Okeechobee had yielded 24. At least 15 were reported drowned at Antepo. A

Crew Of Freight Steamer Rescued; Ship Goes Down

Freighter Willbabco Runs Into Heavy Sea And Hold Is Pounded To Pieces

(International News Service)

BOSTON, Sept. 20.—The rescue of the crew of the freight steamship Willbabco, of the Williams Line, approximately 200 miles south of Cape Hatteras in the tail-end of the Florida hurricane was told today in radiograms picked up here.

The rescue was effected at daybreak this morning by the steamship Guyaquil, owned by the Panama Railroad.

First news of the plight of the Willbabco, later reported sinking, came in a message which said that she had been pounded by the heavy seas and that she had sprung a leak in her hold.

An hour later came an S. O. S. call from the Willbabco. The Guyaquil wirelessed that she was rushing to the aid of the stricken freighter.

Later came word that the steamship Santa Marta of the United Fruit Company and steamship Bessemer City of the United States Steel Company were going to the aid of the sinking Wallbabco.

The Guyaquil then sent out a message stating that she had taken off the crew.

Vacation Tour Editor News,

Dear Sir:

The tourists that related the story about the large bullet hole in the door of the Jennie Wade home in Gettysburg, failed to mention the most important part.

There is a story regarding that bullet hole in the door that every maiden lady who puts her finger through it will be married within a year. That is probably the reason that the bullet hole is growing.

Estimates Dead In Everglades Storm Close To 600 Mark

Report Following Tour Of Everglades Section Says At Least 600 Missing

(International News Service)

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., Sept. 20.—S. W. Hiatt, a Palm Beach agricultural agent here today following a tour of the towns of Belle Glade, South Bay, Chosen, Ritta, Lorrey and Kraemer on Lake Okeechobee in the Everglades section, reported that 600 are dead in that district as the result of the West Indian hurricane which swept the state on Sunday. He added that between 600 and 650 others are missing and are believed to have been drowned when the Lake Okeechobee dikes gave way on Sunday night.

Hiatt said this information was received from Frank Halloway, a contractor and farm owner of Belle Glade and was substantiated by other prominent citizens of the district.

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Sept. 20.—President and Mrs. Coolidge returned to New England today in a downpour of rain.

When the presidential special arrived here shortly after 8 a. m. (D. S. T.) there were 75 people on the platform waiting to greet it.

Mrs. Coolidge was greeted by her friend, Mrs. R. D. Hilles, who accompanied the president and his wife to Cooley-Dickinson hospital for a visit with Mrs. Coolidge's mother, Mrs. Elmira Goodhue.

The presidential train had ten stops in the Green Mountain state. The route lay through the flood regions and the president was given opportunity of seeing at first hand the work of rehabilitation in his native state.

President and Mrs. Coolidge planned to spend the night at the Coolidge homestead and tomorrow afternoon to motor to Cavendish to visit an aunt of the president. From Cavendish the presidential special will return to Northampton. Mrs. Coolidge will leave the train here and will remain for a few days with her mother.

Hoover Hears He Will Carry Some Southern States

Solid South To Show Defection First Time Since Days Of Civil War

URGED TO SPEAK IN SOUTHERN STATES

May Add One Or Two More Meetings To Scheduled Tennessee Trip

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—Showing a keen interest in the reports of his lieutenants that he will be the first Republican since the Civil War to break into the "solid South", Herbert Hoover today considered numerous requests to extend his southern invasion early in October.

He has been asked to make three speeches on his trip to Elizabeth, Tennessee, October sixth and he undoubtedly will make at least two. One speech, of a historical character, while the other would give him an opportunity to speak on campaign issues. The second speech probably will be made in Johnson City, Tenn., where the Hoover leaders of the south will assemble after the Elizabethton speech.

The Hoover board of strategy plans to make this trip Hoover's big bid for southern electoral votes. According to his advisers, he has a chance of carrying Texas, North Carolina, Florida and Virginia, while they argue Tennessee will be won by his visit.

Fruit Orchards Suffer Damage By Wind Storm

Orchard Owners In Eastern Pennsylvania Report Heavy Losses By Wind Storm

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Sept. 20.—Heavy losses were reported today by orchard owners in Dauphin, Adams and Cumberland counties as the result of the high wind, the tail end of the Florida hurricane, that whipped the Harrisburg district late yesterday and early today.

No definite estimate of the damage to the fruit crop has been compiled, but it was believed it would aggregate several thousands of dollars.

During the height of the storm late yesterday, branches were stripped from hundreds of trees and several stores reported that huge plate glass windows had been blown in. The weather bureau here reported that the wind reached a peak velocity of 22 miles an hour. None was reported injured.

Judge F. P. Schoonmaker Pays Tribute To Work Of Late Jas. A. Gardner

Honorable Frederick P. Schoonmaker, Bradford, U. S. district judge for western district of Pennsylvania, paid a touching tribute to the memory of the late James A. Gardner of this city at the Gardner memorial dinner held in the cathedral last night, in connection with the convention of the League of Third Class Cities.

The memorial dinner was attended by delegates to the annual convention, senators, jurists and citizens in all walks of life, and tears fell as the jurist repeated chapters from the life of the man he was associated with for approximately 30 years.

Gardner was referred to as not only a distinguished citizen, soldier and lawyer, but a man who believed in obedience to law and was one who believed that every individual should observe the law and he himself helped to pass, thereby creating a concrete foundation of government.

Presents Judge Schoonmaker.

Invocation was pronounced by the Very Rev. Father F. F. O'Shea, pastor of St. Mary's church, after which Mayor William H. Gillespie, this city, introduced A. A. Cochran, city solicitor of Chester, who paid a tribute to his former associate, Mr. Gardner, and in turn presented the jurist.

Judge Schoonmaker remarked in opening his tribute:

"I came here because I desired to speak about my old friend, Mr. Gardner, whom I loved." He told of having been associated for 30 years with him and said New Castle has an honor in having given the state such an able lawyer.

"For more than a quarter century his advice on all subjects on municipal law was sought by every lawyer and officer of the state. His opinions were respected and New Castle can well feel proud of him, as he served long and faithfully. It has been one of my life's pleasures to have been one of his friends.

"He was a distinguished citizen. I recall when a convention met and Mr. Gardner said to Mr. Cochran and I:

WIND VELOCITY UNUSUALLY HIGH

Three Lives Lost; Ships Are Wrecked; Much Damage Done To Orchards

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 20.—Three lives were lost, ships were wrecked and thousands of dollars worth of damage was done to homes, orchards and crops in Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware by the tropical hurricane which swept up the Middle Atlantic coast last night and early today.

Although the rain had ceased to fall early today, the wind still remained at a high velocity, blowing down signs, wires, chimneys, trees and littering the streets of the city and suburbs with debris.

Over 80 Miles Per Hour

The Delaware and South Jersey coast line was the hardest hit, where the gale at times reached over 80 miles an hour. The wind which swept Philadelphia and vicinity was mild in comparison, whistling past at only 46 miles an hour.

Two fishermen, Harry Bowen and Sam Whittaker, were drowned near Atlantic City when their skiffs were battered to pieces by the high seas. Frank Ingersoll, 40, Somers Point, N. J., was drowned in Great Bay as he was about to step aboard his houseboat.

COUNTY ASKING BIDS ON BRIDGE AT NORTH STREET

Believed There Will Be No Difficulty Over Approval Of Plans By State

Although the Water Ways Commission has not yet given approval for the North street bridge across the Neshannock creek the county commissioners are asking bids, having reasonable assurance that the plans will be approved when the commission meets. The only question is whether or not a pier is to be allowed and as the stream is wider at North street than at Washington where there is a pier there appears to be no reason why there should not be a pier at North street.

Bids are being asked for a three plate girder structure of two spans. Each span will be 75 feet nine inches long. There will be a 40 foot roadway with two six foot sidewalks. All steel is to be encased in concrete like the Washington street bridge. Bids are expected to be in by October 11.

Relief Workers Face Apalling Task In Region

Estimates Of Dead Are Placed From 400 To 1,000 Persons

FRANTIC APPEALS ARE SENT FOR AID

Hurricane Much More Severe Than Miami Blow Two Years Ago

While weary relief workers in the West Palm Beach section of Florida buried their dead, sought to provide temporary shelter for 15,000 homeless and labored desperately to ward off a threatened epidemic, unofficial estimates of the dead ranged from 400 to 1,000 persons.

The complete toll of the hurricane will probably never be known.

Appalling Loss of Life.

Desolate stretches of the everglades awash with the overflow which the hurricane drove from Lake Okeechobee, continued to give up their dead, and the appalling loss of life became more apparent as the hours of search ragged on.

Estimates of the fatalities varied, but nearly all of them reached the 400 mark. Dr. A. W. Ziebold, general manager of the Miami Chamber of Commerce, director of relief work in the lake region, placed the deaths in the entire storm area at 500.

Estimates 1,000 Dead.

Three hundred actually counted dead bodies at Belle Glade were reported by H. O. Bassett, head of another party of relief workers who estimated the total dead for that region would be over 1000.

Dr. Ziebold said his estimate was based on a tour of the Belle Glade district late yesterday. Bodies of 38

If your great great grandma's grandma could come back to earth a bit, and she saw the styles they're wearing, wonder would she have a fit. Would the shortened skirt appall her, would she hold her hands in fright, would she gasp at shortened hair braids, would she, well you know she might. But I've always thought that grandma would not snort a single snort, for those old time folks took chances and your grandma was a sport. She wore skirts that trailed the sidewalk, but such clothes were stylish then, and your grandpa dressed in trappings, but then so did other men. If they lived today I'm guessing they would also be in style, weather's sixty-two today folks, summer's with us yet a while.

Former Ellwood Policeman Faces Trial By Jury

Larceny Of Cigars From Switzer Drug Store Is Charged Against H. J. Chasey

DEFENDANT DENIES HE ENTERED STORE

Ellwood City is well represented at Lawrence county court today in the trial of H. J. Chasey, a former lieutenant of police, who is charged with the larceny of two boxes of cigars and some cigarettes from the Switzer drug store on the night of April 16, 1928. Mr. Switzer testified as to the loss of the cigars.

W. F. Rayheiser, also a former police lieutenant, who had been demoted to a patrolman, when Chasey was made lieutenant in February preceding the alleged entering of the drug store by Chasey, testified that on the night of April 16, he was passing the drug store at about 2:45 a. m. when he met Chasey. The latter, so Rayheiser said, had a key to the drug store, and asked the witness if he would stand at the door while he, Chasey went in. Rayheiser said he would not and walked on up the street. Later Rayheiser testified that he saw Chasey come out of the drug store with a couple of boxes of cigars. Chasey, he said, gave him one at the police station, saying it was his share. Rayheiser put it in his locker and later took it home. Later it leaked out that he had the cigars and they were turned over to authorities. Witness also stated that Jess Booher, another policeman at that time had been given some of the cigars.

At the opening of the case for the defense it was contended that there was ill feeling between Rayheiser and Chasey on account of the former having been demoted as lieutenant and the latter promoted.

Chasey, testifying in his own behalf, said that he had been on the force about two years. At the time Morrison was made chief, he had been promoted from a patrolman to lieutenant. He denied that he had entered Switzer's drug store, that he had told Rayheiser that he was going in or that he had secured any cigars. He also stated that it was not true that he had given Rayheiser a box of cigars, or that he had given Booher any cigars. Witness said that he knew Rayheiser was jealous of him.

Jess Booher, former policeman, testified that Chasey had not given him any cigars. He stated further that he had not seen Rayheiser at the police station on the morning when the cigars were alleged to have been given.

Former policeman Bowder testified that sometime between February and April 16th Rayheiser had said to him that if he could "get" Chasey it would mean a lot to him.

The case is still on trial before Judge Hildebrand. There are eight women and four men on the jury.

notice that they really transacted quite a bit of business along with their good time?

Pa Newc notices that Washington was the recipient of the tail end of the hurricane. Without a doubt that is the cause probably of the inclement weather that we are now having in New Castle.

Did you notice the statement of registration boards was that the people were really turning out this fall and registering? This election is at least showing that the American people will go to the polls when there is a vital issue at stake, if it does nothing else.

JUDGE SCHOONMAKER PAYS TRIBUTE TO JAMES A. GARDNER

"I want to make my annual pilgrimage to Gettysburg and there we fought over that three days' fight which stayed Lee's advance into Pennsylvania. I'll never forget how he described the struggle to us.

Loyal American Citizen.

"His was a loyal American citizen. He was among those who defended the union. That was the type of a man Mr. Gardner was.

"The United States, instead of building at the top and going down, started at the bottom and built up, which brought about duties and responsibilities. Mr. Gardner realized that and sought to typify that idea in his life. People today must realize individual responsibility," he said.

"Give me a citizen who believes in obeying the law rather than that it should be enforced and we will have an ideal government. The American citizen must feel his own individual responsibility to observe the law he himself has helped to pass. Mr. Gardner was one who did feel the responsibility.

"He wrote into the law the Home Rule clause which is in the constitution to impress citizens with their own individual responsibility for government.

"Mr. Gardner thought individual citizens ought to be interested in their government so that Home Rule could be extended to cities.

"I believe there is a dangerous sign in the legislation of the legislature to regulate from Harrisburg the necessities of New Castle.

Citizens Must Govern Own City.

"You can't have the right kind of government until citizens have the right to govern their own city.

"You should resist the attempt of the legislature to regulate home affairs," said the judge.

Judge Schoonmaker went on to say that he believes that the cities of Pennsylvania and the United States at large are coming to realize economy and are carrying forward plans and that can only be completed by the securing of efficient men.

"Look at New Castle," he declared. "See how long the people retained Mr. Gardner. Look at Chester where Mr. Cochran is retained and at Easton where Newton Turner is the solicitor. Those city councils have realized the importance of having trained efficient men to advise them.

"I believe it the duty of New Castle and every other city to hire for your officers the best educated talent for the money you can afford to pay. Municipalities must follow the same practice as corporations. You cannot hire on account of politics.

"In order to get efficiency you must hire the best that you can afford to pay," was his warning note.

Keep Police Out of Politics.

"The police must be kept out of politics. The police must have an administration free of politics for the interest of the city and to be able to restrain crime.

"As fast as cities of the United States realize the government of a city is a business proposition then the administrations will be successful.

"That is what the late Mr. Gardner thought was the future of the American citizen. We must get a business administration of our cities and that is the message we must leave tonight," said the judge in conclusion.

Mayors Honored.

All the mayors of the third class cities present, other dignitaries including judges, senators and Rev. F. F. O'Shea occupied places of honor at the speakers table. Mayor William H. Gillespie, this city, president of the league, presided.

U. S. District Judge Frederick P. Schoonmaker was brought to the city of New Castle for his address at the Gardner memorial dinner by Fred L. Rentz, publisher of The News, a member of the reception committee. Judge Schoonmaker and Mr. Rentz are friends of many years' standing. They were accompanied by Commissioner Cole of the Chamber of Commerce.

Before and during the banquet the audience was kept in fine spirits by "Red" Williams, vocalist, and Dr. C. C. Dickey, piano accompanist. Williams rendered several selections and led in the "pep" singing throughout. Louie Round scored a hit with Ramona and Mother Machree. The banquet was arranged through a committee headed by Solicitor Robert White, who has been decidedly active during the convention.

MAY NEVER KNOW POSITIVE NUMBER KILLED BY STORM

score of persons were believed lost at Chosen. Toreey Island and Pahokee had given 20 dead.

Recovery of the bodies was difficult, because much of the region was inaccessible to every means of transportation. Rowboats and a few motor boats were sent up the Everglades canal that leads into the desolate waste from West Palm Beach, and their crews poked about with grappling hooks for new victims.

No additional casualties had been reported along the coastal region, including West Palm Beach, Lake Worth, Delray Beach and Deerfield. The list was not expected to exceed a dozen.

Injured Are Treated

More than 500 injured were treated at various first aid stations scattered through 150 miles marked the path of the hurricane before it plunged into the uninhabited stretches of the Everglades and diminished in force. Most of these had suffered broken legs or arms or other injuries of a minor nature.

The complete toll of Sunday's horrors may never be known. Accurate lists of the missing have been impossible to obtain in several communities. Whole neighborhoods of negroes vanished when the hurricane lifted Lake Okeechobee from its banks.

J. E. Young, a member of the Red Cross relief committee, returned from an aerial tour of the section, with what he termed "a conservative estimate" of 250 drowned in the Belle Grade district alone. He was piloted by A. B. Chalk. Scores of bodies were seen in shallow water.

Thousands Homeless

"We first landed at Canal Point," said Younge, "and noticed that approximately 50 per cent of the new houses erected by the sugar plantation were wrecked. From there we went to Pahokee, flying low. All the farmhouses along the southeastern fringe of the lake looked like blots. Circles of debris surrounded roofless gaps.

"One section of Belle Glade was swept clean, and all the houses left were deposited on the opposite side of the canal bank. There is not a stick standing in what was the negro section."

West Palm Beach, Lake Worth, Delray Beach, Deerfield and other coastal cities, spared the loss of life in the interior, were confronted nonetheless with a momentous problem of rebuilding. Hundreds of dwellings, public buildings and business houses were destroyed or damaged. Commerce is at a standstill, thousands are homeless and community life is paralyzed.

POLICE CAPTAIN AND DETECTIVES ARE ARRAIGNED

ing the day and held in heavy bail by Judge Edwin O. Lewis. They were Captain William C. Knoell, 56 and Detectives John Sells, 43, and Herbert Layre, 46. Knoell was held in $15,000 bail and Layre in $10,000 while Sells, who made a clean breast of everything, was held in $5,000.

Quick Justice

Another startling development during the day was the arrest, indictment and conviction within 16 hours of Samuel Yaffe, saloonkeeper. He was given a three-year prison term on charges of liquor violations and bribing policemen. He was arrested at 1 a. m. and began his prison term at 5 p. m. Yaffe's three bartenders were placed on probation for one year.

The climax of the "fireworks" display came during the hearing of Captain Knoell whom it was testified had obtained $12,000 from 20 saloonkeepers in the past six months. Sells, his district detective, took the stand and testified he collected $500 a week from the Saloonkeeper's Association and taking $60 for himself placed the balance in the Captain's desk. He was followed in turn by 19 of the saloonkeepers and the bartender of the other one who said they had paid $25 weekly to one of their members who in turn gave it to Sells.

Makes Confession

A county detective threw a large envelope on the desk in front of the accused Captain. Extracting 51 yellow-backed $100 bills the detective spread them out with a deposit book before Knoell's startled gaze.

The detective explained the envelope and money with the deposit book had been obtained from a young woman who had been given them yesterday morning by Captain Knoell. After the accused Captain was held in bail he was hurried to the district attorney's office where it was said he collapsed and confessed in full.

Captain William C. Wuest, another police captain was "fired" during the day, two captains were appointed to dry clean his district. Ten police officials in all have been implicated in the charges of corruption so far.

HOOVER HEARS HE WILL CARRY SOME SOUTHERN STATES

semble Republican leaders and the anti-Smith Democratic leaders from every state in the south at the Elizabethton gathering. Hoover then would address them at a dinner-conference or else meet them personally at a series of conferences, such as were held on his visit to Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

May Speak In Arizona.

In this manner, he would obtain a personal contact with the men who will handle his campaign below the Mason-Dixon line.

Some of Hoover's advisers have urged him to make another trip into the south and to make a prepared address in the southwest, preferably Texas. He may agree to speak in Arizona on his way west to vote at his home in Stanford University, Cal., late in October but there appears little liklihood of an invasion of Texas. If he again visits Arizona, his managers would rally Texan leaders at a series of conferences at the city chosen for the speech and thus kill two political birds with one stone.

Hoover received gratifying reports from his Tennessee leaders, to add to those still coming in on his trip to New Jersey. J. Will Taylor, the Tennessee national committeeman, General James A. Fowler, senatorial candidate and Marion Richardson, state campaign director, told him he would carry their state as a result of his contemplated visit. They said the speech of Senator William E. Borah, of Idaho, at Knoxville Saturday night and Hoover's trip would swing the state into the Republican column "without a doubt."

The nominee meanwhile was seeking to catch up with all headquarters matters so he can get away for a few days' fishing down the Chesapeake bay.

RED CROSS SENDS FUNDS FOR RELIEF

the fury of the hurricane, that will make this possible.

Asks for $1,000.

The Lawrence county chapter of the American Red Cross has been asked for at least $1,000 to make the relief of the suffering people of the devastated districts possible.

The appeal locally has already been made by WalterW. Braham and there has been some response. It is believed that there has not been a greater and more rapid response because of the fact that the local people have not yet fully realized the dire need of their fellow human beings in Porto Rico, the West Indies and Florida.

Red Cross Sends $100.

Not waiting for the local response to provide the funds, the local chapter has already dispatched to the Washington headquarters of the American Red Cross a check for $100 as an advance payment toward the amount asked of this community. This is to meet the immediate demand, while the generous people of this community are making up their minds to donate their bit to the fund through the local chapter.

Need Larger Donations.

Some donations have already been made here, but it is necessary that more and larger ones be made immediately in order that the funds may be sent to national headquarters of the American Red Cross to meet the growing demand for funds to pay for the tons upon tons of foodstuffs already on the way to the points of greatest need, women's and children's clothing are needed badly and donations of this character will also be most acceptable.

Send Your Donation.

The people of the city are requested to mail to or leave their checks for the greatest amounts possible, also cash, at the Red Cross office, second floor of the Temple building on North street.

There has never been a time when there was greater need of speedy action on the part of charitably inclined people of this district to meet the demand for assistance of those in trouble and it is hoped that the money asked will not only be provided in a few days, but that there will be an oversubscription in order to meet the indicated growing need of assistance.

Contributions.

At noon today a total of $147 had been forwarded to the national headquarters of the American Red Cross in Washington, D. C., as a part of the Lawrence county chapter's contribution to the relief fund. No clothing has been received as yet.

The following contributions have been received:

Lawrence county chapter	$100.00
A friend	1.00
A friend	1.00
Mrs. Mary C. Ward	25.00
John B. Kiefer	10.00
Mrs. Kate Marshall	10.00

COATESVILLE MAYOR IS NEW PRESIDENT

mans, Harrisburg; trustees, Newton Turner, Easton; J. H. McConnell, Reading and W. D. Kinney, Erie.

Among the honorary vice presidents is Councilman William T. Burns of New Castle, who is also a member of the auditing committee.

Mayor Horn Presides

Mayor S. S. Horn, Easton, presided over today's meeting. The session was featured by an explanation of the Metropolitan Plan of City Charter, given by Dr. Thomas H. Reed, Ann Arbor, Mich.; proportional representation by Walter J. Millard, Philadelphia and disposition of garbage and offal by William Smith, Reading.

In explaining the Metropolitan plan, Reed said that "this plan will not affect the relation of Third class city law except as arrangements modify it by the establishment of the plan. He said it is an Allegheny county plan.

Proportional Representation

Proportional representation as outlined by Walter Millard, Philadelphia said it had been developed and is being advocated to get rid of certain crying evils in the old method of electing representative bodies.

According to the method of voting a voter could cast several expressions and the ballot would be counted for the first choice if it can be used to help elect him. If it cannot help elect him, it would be transferred to the highest of the other choices whom it can help.

Under the plan, as explained, a voter cannot help any of those preferred by making lower choices for others. The more choices, a voter expressed, the surer one would be to make the ballot count for one of them.

Under the system, if adopted, (which has been done in several cities already) the same figures should not be placed opposite more than one name. If the ballot is spoiled, it should be returned to the election officer for a new one.

The counting would be done at central place instead of a precinct and the nominees getting the highest number of votes would be elected. Ashtabula, O., is one nearby city which is using the Proportional Representation system.

Tells of Incinerating Plant

William J. Smith, Reading told how the incinerating plant at Reading is conducted, told of collections three times a week from all homes, except Sunday and rapid movement to minimize obnoxious odors arising from vans.

He also told of the production of an oil that could be sold for various purposes and of the pulp matter being made available for cultivating ground by mixing the proper ingredients and said revenue from by-products almost totalled the cost of operation.

Papers regarding the collection of delinquent taxes and experience with city-county buildings were not read and S. S. Horn, mayor of Easton, president of the morning session, called for nominations and the elections followed.

Mayor W. E. Greenwood, Coatesville, replied, stating he appreciated the honor after which the delegates sang "Blessed Be the Tie That Binds" and "Auld Lang Syne" after which the meeting was turned over to Mayor Gillespie.

Expres Appreciation

Before the convention was ended the delegates passed a resolution presented by Ross Seaman, Harrisburg which read:

"The league in convention assembled, expresses its deep appreciation and courtesies by Mayor William H. Gillespie, officials and citizens generally of New Castle. The visit here has been most delightful and profitable.

"New Castle is progressing, is delightful and on every hand is well governed. The league takes this opportunity to thank the New Castle News for the capable manner in which the proceedings have been handled."

The resolution also thanked U. S. Judge Frederick P. Schoonmaker for his address, which was filled with suggestions for the government of municipalities and also the ladies of the Highland U. P. church who assisted at the Gardner memorial banquet.

The resolution further said that the convention extended its thanks to the retiring officials for the faithful performance and attention to their duties as officials of the league.

LABOR HAS PROSPERED

HERBERT HOOVER, in his speech at Newark, N. J., fully vindicated the popular belief that for its past seven years' of national prosperity and progress the United States is indebted in large part to able Republican administrations and the popular opinion that if this prosperity and progress is to continue the Republican party should remain in power for four more years.

Millions of thoughtful voters will ponder long on these words of the Republican nominee:

"At such a time as this a change in national policies involves not—as some may lightly think—only a choice between roads by either of which we may go forward, but a question also as to whether we may not be taking the wrong road and moving backward. The measure of our national prosperity, of our stability, of our hope of further progress at this time, is the measure of what we may risk through a change in present policies. More than once in our national history a change in policies in a time of advancement has been quickly followed by a turn toward disaster."

Than Mr. Hoover there is no American who better knows the "modern relationships of government and industry" which are a tangled mass of economic and social problems" and can "make for the happiness of every home in our country."

When he said "the Republican party has performed unparalleled service to the employes in our commerce and industry throughout its history," It was no empty phrase of a stump speaker. It was the logical conclusion arrived at by a former secretary of commerce after an exhaustive analysis of the facts. Not the least of that service was the reduction of the unemployed from six million in 1921 to less than two million in 1928. And for nearly six years of that period there actually existed a labor shortage.

Not all the Democratic candidates, managers and campaign speakers can argue the people out of the settled opinion that the Republican party in the seven years since 1921 has "produced a fundamental program which made this restored employment secure on foundations of prosperity" and that "this recovery and stability are no accident," but the fruits of "sound governmental policies and wise leadership."

PLOWMAN OF THE FUTURE

SHOULD Gray's immortal "Elegy" be revised in 1936 it would probably read "The plowman, no longer, homeward plods his weary way." For it is predicted that within another decade the bucolic child of the poet's brain will turn on the juice in the morning and at evening find his farm acres all tilled by his automatically controlled electric plow.

This, electric engineers say, will be one of the many blessings to be brought to the farm by the universal adoption of electricity by the agriculturist. And these same engineers go further to say that such universal adoption is not far distant.

There is nothing fanciful in predictions and promises for rural electrification. They are not any more revolutionary nor impractical than the electrification of the home. But just as there were many who a few years ago scoffed at the thought of stoves, toasters, percolators, vacuum cleaners, washing machines and irons all operated by electricity just as economically and with as little dirt and trouble as electric lights, there will be those who will now ridicule the thought of electric plows and other adaptations of electric power on the farm.

But the fact is that the electrification of the American farm has already progressed to an advanced stage. Hundreds of thousands of farms, large and small, in the United States already have electric power either from commercial lines or private power plants and are employing it in pumping their water, milking their cows, churning their butter, cutting wood, electrifying the farm home just as the city home is electrified, and for many other purposes.

When his fields are plowed, his seed is planted, his crops are cultivated and harvested by electricity the farmer will have more time for making the raising of food a science and for putting the business of farming on a business basis.

SMITH CHANCES IN REAPPORTIONMENT

SENATOR DILL deludes himself with an empty Democratic hope if he thinks failure to reapportion congress in 1920 may invalidate the coming election. The theory, as the senator presented it to a Spokane audience, was that in event of a close contest between Hoover and Smith, the margin of victory might turn on the electoral vote of a few states. Since these states should have a quota of electors corresponding to their quota of senators and representatives in congress, he argued, the present distribution is illegal and its results might be challenged.

The constitution is less explicit on this matter than the senator from Washington desires. It provides for a decennial census. That has been taken. The rest of the section is largely devoted to rights of individual citizens. The Fourteenth Amendment supplements these precautions. None of these features figures in the present situation. As far as the House of Representatives is mentioned, the constitution directs that apportionment be on the basis of population, but it fails to say how soon each reapportionment must be made.

The most practical answer to Senator Dill, however, is here points out the Philadelphia Inquirer. If the reapportionment were made by the method most commonly favored, that is, without increasing the total membership of the house, the states which would gain would be mostly Republican, except Texas and North Carolina, and the latter is this year in the doubtful column at least. On the other hand, the states which would lose electors are doubtful and Democratic states, save Vermont, Maine and Kansas. In other words, Mr. Hoover would gain by a redistribution of the elector quota based on population. By the best possible break on doubtful states, Governor Smith could not surmount the mathematical hurdles.

Today

Hoover to Workmen.

The Common Billion.

Be Polite to Ouafi.

Two Short Speeches.

By ARTHUR G. BRISBANE (Copyright, 1928, by N. Y. American, Inc.)

Herbert Hoover, beginning his campaign in the East, outlined his views on labor tells the workers that their continued prosperity depends on this election.

What labor asks, Mr. Hoover plans to give, and he has a definite plan.

Today's newspapers will tell the country of Gov. Smith's definite plans for farmers, which he is unfolding asthis is written.

For labor, Herbert Hoover proposes restricted immigration, expansion of foreign trade, increased national efficiency, organization of credit, free collective bargaining between capital and labor, restricted use of injunctions in labor disputes, public works to assure employment in times of idleness, scientific study of idleness problem.

Herbert Hoover reminded his hearers that when Republicans came back to power in 1921, there were from "5,000,000 to 6,000,000 unemployed in our streets, at the same time wages and salaries were falling."

He also mentioned the fact that within a year after the Republicans got in, 5,000,000 workers that had been idle were put to work.

Gov. Smith, of course, will reply to all this as soon as he reads it.

The word "billion," once whispered low, in awe, becomes part of advertising. The Continental National Bank and Trust Company of Chicago, advertises in big letters, "What Chicago's Billion-Dollar Bank Will Mean to Its Customers."

One billion dollars is the amount that Bismarck made the French pay after the war of 1870, considering five thousand million francs as much as the French could pay.

France offered national securities to the French people, that German invaders might leave French soil, and Frenchmen subscribed the five billion francs fourteen times over.

We are getting used to the billion; with billion-dollar banks, billion-dollar corporations, two or three of them at least, and a number of billionaires, although they modestly don't brag about it.

When will the TRILLION and the trillionaire appear?

Mr. El Ouafi, French Arab, who beat all runners of the world in the Olympic Marathon, is here.

Nature, producing him, seems to have had a greyhound in mind. His legs are almost as thin as a greyhound's, and, quite tall, he weighs only 124 pounds.

El Ouafi is a citizen of the French republic, and, although many sporting Americans that see him run will not know it, his ancestors of ancient Arabia are ancestors whom our civilization and its science owe a great deal.

Those old Arabs were learned in science, mathematics and many lines when our ancestors in England were hiding in swamps and our ancestors in Ireland were running over the hills and bogs not much dressed, their great king putting aside his cloak of raw bull hide in the presence of a French visitor, revealing a king with nothing on him.

Many words that we use every day, sofa, alcohol, many terms in chemistry, come from the Arabic.

"Friends of the radio, this is Thomas A. Edison speaking."

Thus the great American inventor began a brief talk opening New York's radio exposition.

At the same opening Henry Ford, speaking for the first time on the radio, said of Edison. "He has done more through his inventions for humanity than any other human being. He is recognized as the father and founder of the present industrial age. All that we have done has been made possible by his inventions for the use of power."

The world will wait a long time before hearing two shorter or more interesting radio talks.

Raymond S. Blunt, of Chicago, is called the human time clock. He remembers where he was, what happened every hour, minute of the last 10 years.

In four months of this year, for instance, he spent 968 hours in sleep, 25 hours in church, 363 hours at meals, 48 hours on pleasure, etc.

That's interesting, but keeping track of time, hours and minutes is not so important as putting something into the hours and minutes.

For instance, the minute in which Thomas A. Edison decided that two messages, as well as one, might be sent over the same wire at the same time, was more important to the world than all the well regulated hours in the lives of ten thousand other men.

Serious rebellion in Barcelona. Catalonia has been to Spain what Ireland once was to England, a thorn in the side. Yesterday there was a rumor that De Riveria, Spanish premier, had been shot.

Canada thinks that a young man committing a crime should remember it. In Quebec, Robert Chandonet, bank teller, pleading guilty to theft with violence, will go to the penitentiary for ten years.

Eight days after he enters prison he will receive five blows from the cat-o'-nine-tails, and eight days before he comes out five more.

Our young criminals will call that taking crime TOO seriously.

The thing to be considered most is the welfare of the people of this great country of ours. Confidence is the great thing to be considered.

No matter what legislation is ever passed for the benefit of the farmer he and his family will never be able to get out of hard work. Hard work goes with farming and there are none who succeed without it. Of course there are loafers on farms just like there are in the newspaper or other business and they prosper accordingly.

STEALING ART TREASURES

It leaves an American sick at heart to read of the robbery of the Japanese temples by crooks of this nation.

If, as the dispatches intimate, "distinguished names" are involved in the looting of these sacred treasures, the honor of the United States demands that every last one of these society people—as well as the crooks—be turned over to the Japanese government for punishment.

And it is to be hoped that the current mode of punishment in Japan includes beheading, the bastinado, the stocks, ling chee and some more.

The effect of these wholesale thefts—under the guise of borrowing art treasures for scientific societies that turn out to be bogus—will be far-reaching.

The whole Orient—India, Indo-China, Japan and Siberia—is restless and looking for trouble. About the one remaining safety device was the confidence that they had in America and the good faith of the American people.

The loooting that followed the Boxer rebellion in China—in at least one instance participated in by a diplomatic minister of the United States—has remained a dangerous sore spot in the heart of China. This will be a worse one. And in the heart of a nation capable of a resentment more dangerous than could stir the philosophical, disillusioned Chinese.

Anglo-French Pact Failure Produces Much Satisfaction

While Some Americans Believe It Was Innocuous, Secret Diplomacy Is Condemned As Contrary To Accepted Policies

ANGLO.

The unpleasant odor of secrecy that surrounded the alleged Anglo-French naval pact was sufficient to make the failure of this proposed alliance a welcome disaster from the standpoint of most American commentators. Some chose to see in it an innocuous prelude to further disarmament and scout at the fears it raised.

'If one were to judge by the outcries and alarms, the thing was dark and sinister throughout," says the NEW YORK TIMES, which, however, finds it hard to understand "how these suspicions and fears could have persisted in England after the public and official statement which Lord Cushendun made to the Council of the League of Nations at Geneva on August 30." The Times points out that Lord Cushendun, 'in the most positive way, swept aside the mass of rumor and protest which has been thrown up about the so-called mystery."

The KALAMAZOO GAZETTE feels that "it is difficult to say whether the abandonment of the reported 'understanding' should be welcomed or deplored by the outside world. What information was available regarding the agreement at the time of its announcement by Sir Austen Chamberlain" continues that paper, 'indicated that the compact was going to mark the end of the long and seemingly hopeless differences between France and Great Britain over the question of a mode of precedure for naval arms reduction.*We may only hope that London and Paris will yet be able to reach some common basis of negotiation which will not prove offensive to the United States."

'Some Americans who had studied the navel problem with a broad perspective" according to the SPRINGFIELD REPUBLICAN "were not disposed to worry over the Anglo-French agreement, but rather to feel that a coming together of Great Britain and France might, in the end, be helpful to a new naval treaty, since it was the disagreement of those two powers which partially frustrated the Washington naval conference in 1921-22."

Notwithstanding these views the RALTIMORE EVENING SUN holds that, "however innocuous it may be the agreement has served to raise an atmosphere of suspicion at the very moment when the Kellogg treaty was endeavoring to pronounce a spirit of peace and good will." The NEW ORLEANS ITEM also thinks that "when friends on all hands are supposed to be conferring for peace as against war, it is best for the world that international understandings in the field should be understood by everybody' and that "England and France were not the only ones concerned in this secret agreement."

"Perhaps the most important thing that has brought London and Paris to a decision to scrap the agreement" it is suggested by the BUFFALO EVENING NEWS, "is the imitation that the plan is not agreeable to Washington.*Let it be hoped that this venture will mark the end of secret diplomacy. If the tentative engagement had to do only with disarmament, there could be no possible reason for secrecy. The habit of concealment with regard to engagements of one power with another is highly dangerous. From it came the catastrophe of 1914." The MINNEAPOLIS TRIBUNE believes that "a blunder was committed" and that the incidents "foster the suspicion that the agreement must have been poorly planned," while it expresses the hope that "the result of the episode will convince the European foreign offices that the day of old-fashioned secret diplomacy is about over."

"The agreement is not in keeping with the spirit that should dominate organized world society" declares the TORONTO DAILY STAR, with the further comment: 'It owes its origin to suspicions and rivalries and reliance on force. It lowers Britain in the eyes of other nations. It is regarded by the United States as a breach of faith. But worst of all, perhaps, it commits Britain and, inferentially, the Empire, to a foreign policy that has not received the approval of Parliament, if, indeed, it has the approval of the British cabinet."

"The more that the world hears and sees of open diplomacy the more it is attracted to the idea" states the MONTGOMERY ADVERTISER which reviews the forces at work in the present instance. "It is believed that Chamberlain's intentions were good, that he did not consider his actions aimed at any other power. Nevertheless, Italy objected and the United States government hinted broadly that it, too, would object. Public opinion in Great Britain was disturbed and it compelled Baldwin to put his foot down."

Assuming that the French and British views "ran contrary to the demand of American naval experts," the DES MOINES REGISTER suggests: "Probably that is what has caused the American government to study and study and study the treaty, without ever indicating its approval, all this delay suggesting inevitably that the American government did not approve.*We can be reasonably sure that Kellogg didn't frown sadly at England and spend all his time in Ireland for no purpose but rest."

"American caution in commitment has been well advised" asserts the INDIANAPOLIS NEWS referring especially to "Great Britain's cruiser views" and adding "The British have been anxious to limit the tonage of this type of ship to 6,000 for each unit whereas the United States has insisted on a maximum of 10,000. Our position has been that, since we had relatively few naval bases compared with Great Britain, larger craft were necessary to insure a cruising radius adequate for American national defense."

"The death of the tentative 'compromise,'" according to the ERIE DISPATCH-HERALD "is ascribed, first, to the suspicions aroused and voiced in the United States, and, second to political attacks at home upon a government which should so bungle an important diplomatic matter. But the most interesting British comment has been that, even if this naval accord had been signed, sealed and delivered, it would not have been worth the paper it was written on. This is probably true. England would be in no mood to stand for anything like a naval alliance with France."

SELF-ADVERTISING

The English gentleman is supposed to be the most modest of men. He blushes when reference is made to his exploits or achievements. While the continental Catholic crosses himself ostentatiously in public an Englishman is as ashamed of being found saying his prayers as he would be being found stealing apples.

Nevertheless, publicity has a certain economic value, witness the devices of many people to get it. It is hard for a modest man to sell his wares.

It may be possible to make the best rat trap in the world and find folks beating a path to your door, but most people insist on having a red flag in front of their door to attract people to it. It is hard for the ordinary mind to distinguish between self-advertising and fame, upon being great and being called great. Most of us do not want to be a good pianist, but to be thought a good pianist.

When a political candidate mingles with a crowd of strikers and dares a policeman to arrest him; when a magazine editor personally sells one of his magazines in a place where its sale is forbidden; when a writer of fiction dares God to strike him dead while occupying a pulpit; the chances are, what he is trying to do is advertise himself.

A sense of dramitic values has been an aid to the career of many political aspirants, reformers and writers.

Luther burned the Pope's bull at the city gate instead of in the stove in his own home.

Mark Twain wore a white dress suit in crowds where every other man was attired in black.

Tennyson wore a striking wide-brimmed hat and a long cloak that set him apart and made him easily recognized in a crowd.

The founder of a new school of medicine was never seen in public without a long flowing black tie. He also had his beard and moustache cut in a striking fashion that attracted attention wherever he did go. He replied, "That's the reason."

Members of Congress have received many newspaper stories by always wearing the same kind of a flower in their buttonhole, or appearing in a wide-brimmed hat, or similar indivi-

Just Folks

By EDGAR A. GUEST

TO A NEW TYPEWRITER

Here you are at your journey's end,
Sent to me by a faithful friend.
Out of the factory you have come,
Your keys untouched and your letters dumb,
And I wonder, you manufactured thing,
What tales you'll tell and what songs you'll sing.

Had you by chance to a lawyer gone,
Bills of indictments and pro and con
To-wit, whereas and heretofore
Were all you'd have known till your life is o'er.
Bills of injunction and common pleas
Would have been the fruit of your glistening keys.

Had you come into a doctor's hands,
You'd have written papers on thyroid glands,
And your types had labored with curious terms,
And the horrible names of horrible germs,
But I haven't a doubt you'd have done it well,
If the doctor who used you had learned to spell.

But now you are mine and I look you o'er,
And wonder what verses you have in store.
What lines lie hidden among those keys?
And when you have written them will they please?
For, word by word, and line by line
You will translate every thought of mine.

But had you gone to a wiser man
Who can fashion thoughts which I never can,
Then over your platen there might have flowed
A deathless lyric, a living ode.
But this I am fearful will never be Because you have happened to come to me.

County Agent Will Attempt Clean Up Of Corn Borers

Infestation In Lawrence County Worse This Year Than Previously

County Agent H. R. McCulloch returned to the city last evening following a week's tour of the state fairs judging cattle. Immediately upon his return, he launched a fight this morning in the infested corn borer vicinities of the county.

Mr. McCulloch states that there are more of the corn borers in Lawrence county farms this fall than ever before. It will be an impossibility to rid them entirely, state McCulloch, but at least a check can be made on them.

Mr. McCulloch did not know as yet what the state department plans to do yet concerning the checking of the borers, but stated that the farm bureau are going to do all possible to see that the county farms are cleaned so that there will be no spread or increase in the borers.

LE BOURGET France, Sept. 20.—The "Cievra Autogiro" Helicopter which successfully negotiated the English channel and flew to Paris, was wrecked today when it crashed to the ground here from a height of 600 feet. "Tin City Rocket" Enters New Derby Race Coming East

Three-Hop Race From Los Angeles To Cincinnati Starts Tomorrow

RACERS MAY COME ON TO NEW CASTLE

Ask Prizes To Be Arranged So Derbyists Will Race From Cincinnati Here

"Tin City Rocket," New Castle's entry in the recent coast to coast National Air Race committee derby between New York and Los Angeles, will leave Mines field, Los Angeles, at 6 o'clock tonmorrow morning for a three hop race to Cincinnati, O., according to the telegram received here this morning from D. Roy Bradford, owner of the plane. Raymond "Duke" Merritt will pilot the plane.

The race will be a three hop affair for the New Castle plane. The first stop will be made at ElPaso, Texas, then one at Pine Bluff and the final hop will be to Cincinnati. The racers expect to finish some time Sunday in the Ohio city.

In the telegram, Mr. Bradford, wondered if five one hundred dollar prizes might be arranged in New Castle in order to have all of the planes come to this city. Mr. Bradford stated that he would give $100 himself as one of the prizes.

The proposition will be taken up in the various clubs of the city and possibly an attempt will be made to arrange several prizes so that all of the racers will continue from Cincinnati to this city.

It is not known how many planes will leave Mines field tomorrow morning in this three hop race, but from all indications there will be a considerable number, thought perhaps not as many as left New York in the west leg of the derby race. If New Castle raises the prize money which will amount to $400 aside from the money offered by Mr. Bradford, it will mean that a great derby race will land at this city.

The plan will probably be considered at the Chamber of Commerce, and the Rotary club, as well as other civic clubs in the city, and Mr. Bradford will be wired at once.

Certain repairs had to be made and other adjustments previous to the New Castle plane making such a long flight. Mr. Bradford reported that these necessary adjustments had been made and the Rocket was in readiness for the new hop.

The protest meeting of the fliers which took place this week in Los Angeles with the National Air Race committee officials made no change in the list of the race winners, stated Mr. Bradford.

The telegram received this morning from Bradford follows:

"Entered race. Leave Mines field at 6 Friday. Two night stop overs at El Paso and Pine Bluff. Plane work finished today. Protests unallowed and all planes remain in same listing. Would like to suggest to Mr. Rentz, and Chamber of Commerce to offer five one hundred dollar prizes to get all these planes to come to New Castle. Will give one hundred dollars. Wire me at Mines field or at night air port stops.

"BRADFORD."

The showing of the New Castle plane was very good in the coast to coast derby. The Rocket finished twelfth in the race and was seriously handicapped as was several other of the planes. Some of the entrants had specially equipped planes, it is said, that made the race much easier for them.

New Developments Reported Today In "Murder Farm" Case

Three New Sensations Are Revealed By Officials Probing Gruesome Killings

(International News Service)

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Sept. 20.—Three developments of major importance in the Riverside "murder farm" case were apparent today. They were:

Confession of the boy recently returned from Dekalb, Ill., that he was not Walter Collins, who was kidnaped recently. The boy said he did not know who he was nor his correct name. He could give no explanation of his seeming identification of places, persons and things familiar to the real Walter Collins, a supposed murder farm victim.

The disappearance of Mrs. Winnifred Clark, mother of Sanford Clark who uncorked the murder farm expose, was the second development. Mrs. Clark was supposed to have been traveling with Stewart Northcott and his mother before their arrests. Police have been unable to locate her since and it was said that authorities fear foul play. It was also stated that Young Northcott now held by British Columbia police had threatened Mrs. Clark's daughter Jessie if she ever divulged any knowledge of the happenings at the Winnesville chicken ranch.

Third in the complicated horror ranch story is the positive identification by Los Angeles City Chemist Rex E. Welsh of human blood mingled with earth removed from graves on the farm.

The attempt to gain attention by self-advertising through assuming striking peculiarities has had a precedent in many famous men.

But such advertising aided their market rather than their wares.

They became better known thereby, but did not produce better stuff.

Only when self-advertising is coupled with real ability does it contribute to a lasting reputation. While some men of real genius have neglected self-advertising and thus failed, many more have relied upon it and neglected the improvement of their product to the detriment of their lasting reputation.

New Castle Has 1383 Persons For Every Acre Of Park Land

By ARTHUR C. WIMER
Special Washington News Correspondent

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 20.—New Castle has 1,383 residents to every acre of parks within the city limits, according to a survey conducted by the United States department of labor.

In New Castle there are now a total of 32.5 acres of park, according to the survey. The city itself occupies 5,172 acres of land. Basing calculations upon the population reports of the bureau of census, the labor department has concluded that in the city there are 1,383 persons for every acre of park space.

The acreage of parks in New Castle since 1890 has increased approximately thirty-two times. In 1890 the city boasted a population of 8,418 and one park covering one acre of land. By 1905 the population had increased to 34,011 and the municipal park area to three acres. In 1916 the city had 40,361 residents and two parks covering forty-four acres. By 1926, the last year covered by the labor department survey, the municipal parks of the city numbered eight and comprised 32.5 acres.

The figures presented by the labor department do not include 127 acres of parks outside New Castle and not owned by the city, officials of the department state.

Delegates Believe Cities Should Share Receipts From Auto Licenses

Delegates to the convention of the League of Cities of the Third Class believe there should be a division of the monies derived by the state from registration and licensing of automobiles, and that one-half should go to cities for road purposes and the balance paid to the state treasury be kept for motor purposes. The law committee of the league was instructed in a motion to seek legislation toward this end.

During the afternoon P. J. McArdle, councilman, Pittsburgh, explained how real estate and motors are related.

McArdle told his audience that heavy trucks used to haul material to buildings under construction ruin streets. He said that the revenue derived from real estate will in 20 years not be sufficient to keep up with the damage.

Charles A. Walschmidt, solicitor Pittsburgh, read a bill which it had been attempted to have passed in 1927. He told how the money derived from registration and licensing is collected by the state. His plan, he said, would be to have the money divided one-half to go for streets, alleys and public roads, the remainder in the treasury should be kept, he suggested for none other than those applicable to motor vehicles.

Waldschmidt said unified action from cities, boroughs and townships was absolutely necessary to gain the needed legislation.

A motion instructing the law committee to try and secure the legislation, which would benefit third-class cities, was passed.

Relative to other auto angles, Mayor Jacob E. Weaver, York, told how cities can only keep fines for feeding and overloading. He said that the cities should retain all fines that are collected under the auto code. Waver told how reports for driving autos while drunk and other infractions of the code are reported to the courts. He detailed how the case proceeds through legal channels and that everyone gets costs except the city. Waver said the auto had forced an increase in police departments and there should be no division of money.

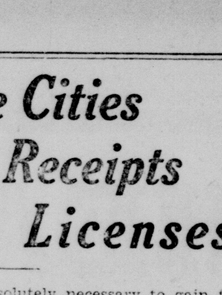

The York mayor took the position that as the city must look after the auto infraction and bear the brunt, the city should keep the fines collected.

John W. Cramer, city clerk of Johnstown, gave a general outline of legislation desired but not granted to third-class cities.

Post Cards From Europe

VENICE, Sept. 20.—Whoever deserves the credit for the decision to destroy the two iron bridges over the Grand Canal ought to get the biggest medal yet struck. These bridges were built during that period of intense "practicality" when the world thought that everything ought to be sacrificed to the supreme interest of enabling the earth's inhabitants to move from place to place with the utmost dispatch; in other words, they were constructed during the middle years of the nineteenth century. They have been an eyesore ever since.

Venice now proposes to replace them with a couple of subterranean passages. (Loud cheers).

But Venice is also proposing something else, not so laudable. There is talk of building a motor-road between Mestro, now linked to Venice only by rail, and the Venice railroad station. From the station barges would be in waiting to transport motorists (and their cars) to the Lido.

I don't mind motor-cars snorting up and down the Lido—it has already begun—but there is a grave danger in building a road into Venice, even if for the moment it halts at the railway station. It would be to say—and so tempting—at some later date to prolong it to the Rialto—and who knows but that ten years hence we should not see Fords and Rolls Royces rumbling about St. Mark's itself?

Today Venice is forbidden to cars, and it should remain so. It is the unique city of the world—a city exempt from city noises, a city built in the sea but built especially for pedestrians. The only city in Christendom where you can walk and jaywalk without being hooted at by an automobile horn or barked at by a cop, or possibly run down and listed among the casualties.

My advise is to keep the motors as far away as possible, and Mestre is none too far.

Economical. Goes farther because it brews stronger-

Gilliland Keeps Audience Howling With Delight

If there are any persons in New Castle suffering with laughitis today do not become alarmed. Laughitis is good for the patient and an epidemic would be welcome for laughitis is a malady that helps to develop a silver lining in the cloud that sometimes affects the average citizen.

The health authorities have taken no action to impound the gentleman who spread the malady though his identity is well known, at least to all those who attended the League of Third Class cities banquet at the cathedral last night. In fact the gentleman is none other than Strickland Gilliland.

He came here renowned as a poet and humorist and he departed as such. In other words he made good because he kept his large audience rollicking in laughter and while he spread a bale of humor each little remark was filled with a lesson that can be used during life's travel.

Gilliland said he had a hard job to perform, perking fun at delegates to the convention of cities of the Third class as he remarked that he did not know what to do about a first class speech when the people present admitted they were Third class.

So Strickland gave a "regular" speech which amounts to nothing else but a first class address.

He said he had no Washington senators listening for an error so he could say what he wanted—and he did that little thing.

He told of how he had served as a councilman in Richmond, Indiana, and of being out of luck for during the time of his incumbency not one big 'works' had been built and dame opportunity had failed to keep her date with him.

He said that during his visit here he had discovered during a session that the best thing in taxation is to keep the man happy by reducing his taxation and doubling the valuation of his property which was a quip at a certain plan Third cities now urge.

He said he had been to Europe to get a rest but the hotel had got the rest. He said Europeans consider Americans foolish because they wouldn't dare act natural at home.

He said he had been in France for some time but he had not been insulted because he did not understand French and as far as being an orator he was everything but.

In fact the reason why he isn't a gifted orator, Gilliland said, is because he lacks the gestures and he doesn't sweat enough.

He defined egotism as swell head and said the people who least deserve them get them. He ramarked significantly that it is easy to pump up a football but not a doorknob, meaning that the people who do get swell heads are those who have nothing but plenty of vacant room 'upstairs'.

"If there is no one here who cannot remember when he was a fool, he is a fool yet" replied the humorist.

The poet recited several poems and then described how people go to a hospital have an operation and when they tell their friends of its success merely stage an "organ recital".

And with this message, Gilliland, the man who can make a grouch get the stomach ache from laughing, finished.

Gilliland was at his best and the audience which had gone through a driving rainstorm to hear Judge Frederick P. Schoonmaker eulogize the late James A. Gardner at the memorial dinner, left in a rainbow of happiness though the clouds still poured down their torrent of drops.

Borough Treasurer Under Arrest For Counterfeit Issue

Fake Money Issued By Borough Treasurer Of Gilberton To Pay Off Civic Debts

(International News Service)

POTTSVILLE, Pa., Sept. 20.—Stephen Allsop, treasurer of the Borough of Gilberton, near here, today awaited a hearing on a charge of malfeasance in office in connection with the "unofficial mint" which placed worthless money in circulation in that section for an indefinite period.

Allsop was arrested yesterday when a warrant was issued and will be given a hearing to explain the details leading up to the alleged "counterfeiting" on Friday.

The so-called "mint" originated sometime ago when the town lacked immediate funds to pay off the debts incurred for civic purposes and the fake money was issued in the community to become legal tender, according to police.

New Evidence In Klan Ouster Suit Said Sensational

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 20.—New evidence, termed by Van A. Barrickman, counsel for a group of ousted Pennsylvania Klansmen as "more sensational" than that produced at the Ku Klux Klan trials here last spring, will be turned over to Attorney General Arthur L. Gillom of Indiana, when the latter comes here tomorrow, Barrickman said today.

Gilom is expected here to secure evidence to be used in the ouster proceedings against the Klan in Indiana.

Barrickman said he has unearthed additional evidence to that presented in the suit of five ousted Klansmen here last spring and in the Klan's $500,000 counter suit, both of which were thrown out of federal court.

The new evidence, Barrickman said, will also be used against the Klan organization in Harrisburg on October 24 when he plans to push his fight for revocation of the organization's charter to do business in Pennsylvania.

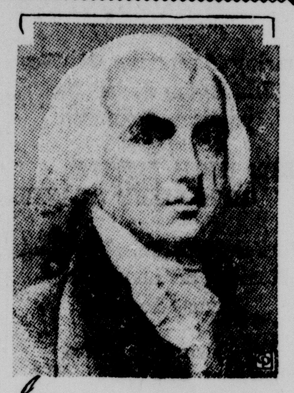

The great need of the world is a set of virtues that will afford a kick when people get bored.

Picking Presidents

1808: Jefferson Declines A Third Term

By CHARLES L. MULLIGAN

Written for Central Press and New Castle News

James Madison

Dolly Madison, popular, clever and winsome, had served as hostess at the presidential mansion on many occasions during the eight years of Widower Jefferson's rule. Her husband, James Madison, of Virginia, industrious but unimposing, had been the secretary of state, matching wits with European diplomats during the struggle of the new nation to keep out of the Napoleonic wars.

Jefferson, declining a third term, put definitely on record the Washington precedent. He was intensely interested in seeing Madison installed. He took a fatherly interest in the Virginia lawyer, who was the first example in our history of what may be termed the handpicked logical successor.

Again there was a nominating caucus of the Republicans in congress, who chose Madison and Vice President Clinton. The Federalists duplicated their ticket of 1804, Pinckney and King. It was the fourth appearance of the names of Pinckney and of Clinton in the electoral voting.

The 176 electors indulged in some scattering of votes. This was the result:

For President—James Madison, of Virginia, 122 votes (elected); Charles C. Pinckney, of South Carolina, 47; George Clinton, of New York, 6.

For Vice President—George Clinton, of New York, 113 votes (elected); Rufus King of New York, 47; John Langdon, of New Hampshire, 9; James Madison, of Virginia, 3; James Monroe, of Virginia, 3.

War was in the air as Madison read his inaugural, with Jefferson beaming fondly at his side. Clinton died early in 1812 and the nation was for the first time without a vice president.

(This is the sixth of a series of 35 digests of presidential campaigns. The seventh will be "1812: The First War-Time Election.")

"Murder Farm" Suspect Held

Gordon Stewart Northcott Runs Afoul Officers In British Columbia

IS NOT WORRIED OVER HIS ARREST

(International News Service)

VANCOUVER, B. C., Sept. 20.—Closely guarded by a squad of provincial police, Gordon Stewart Northcott, alleged abuser and slayer of at leat four boys, was to be returned here today.

Presentation of $100 American note and a request for a stateroom on a day ferryboat aroused the suspicion of the ship's purser. When the boat arrived at Okanagan Landing the purser told Constable Morley Greene. Greene boarded the train taken by the suspected traveler and engaged in conversation.

The youth at first denied his identity but later admitted he was Northcott. He was unaware that his mother had been apprehended by Calgary police in that city. Both Northcott and Mrs. Sarah Louisa Northcott, his mother, were named in murder complaints issued in Southern California.

The youthful proprietor of the so-called "murder farm" at Winesville, Cal., appeared unmoved by his arrest and answered questions nonchalantly.

(International News Service)

NEW SALEM, N. Y., Sept. 20.—Certain evidence casting doubt on the theory that Walk Miller, fight promoter, committed suicide will be presented to the October grand jury, Sheriff Arthur Rice announced today.

It was learned that a fingerprint expert had been called into the case to examine marks near the spot on Miller's health farm where he was found dead with two bullet wounds.

Woman Not Guilty In Liquor Case

Costs Divided Between Plaintiff And Defendant In Harry Lebo Case

In the case of Joseph Smith, charged with the larceny of a cow, the jury returned a verdict of not guilty. Smith had sold the cow and when he did not get the money had driven her back home.

In the case of Harry Lebo, charged with assault and battery a verdict of not guilty was returned. Two-thirds of the costs were assessed on Lebo and one-third on the prosecutor, Albert Moses.

The case of Joseph Yohem, charged with possessing liquor, is on trial before Judge Chambers.

REAL RELIEF CAME WHEN HE STARTED WITH NEW KONJOLA

"It Is Wonderful", He Says; Completely Restored His Health In Every Way.

MR. LEWIS JOHN
Seavy Photo

Disorders of the important functionary organs of the body are common among thousands of people—some of them being chronic and others slight. For the purpose of ending such ailments, this new medicine has been prepared.

It is no longer an experiment but a treatment of recognized worth. The untold number of signed statements from former sufferers proves this. Cases are cited every day by local people telling how Konjola restored normal activity to the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels or relieved stubborn instances of neuritis and rheumatism. One of the latest reports came from Mr. Lewis John, 512 Elizabeth street, New Castle, who gave the following statement to the Konjola Man who is at the Love and Megown drug store, 204 East Washington street.

"I strongly indorse Konjola", said Mr. John. "Because it is a wonderful medicine and has brought new health over my entire system and gave me amazing relief from kidney trouble and a general rundown condition.

"I was suffering every day with kidney trouble. My whole system was awfully rundown and all during the day my back ached so much that it was almost impossible for me to bend over. Due to the disordered condition of my kidneys I always felt tired and worn-out. I was subject to dizzy spells and very often after I had eaten anything at all, I would have to go and rest for sometime on account of them. My appetite was poor and it seemed that no matter what I ate, the food did me no good at all. I had an attack of influenza and this left me in a worse condition than before. I never enjoyed a full nights sleep and the next morning I would get up feeling worse than when going to bed. Finally I developed a stubborn case of neuritis in my shoulders that was almost unbearable.

"I noticed in the papers that Konjola was recommended by many local people for such disorders as mine and I finally made up my mind to give this medicine a trial. The first two bottles gave me more relief than all the medicine I have ever taken. My kidneys function properly again and my bowels were regulated by this wonderful compound. As I continued with the treatment my stomach got better until finally I was able to eat anything I wanted without the least bad result afterward. Now a hard eight hours work does not bother me at all. My neuritis has been entirely relieved and your medicine has been a Godsend to me.

"If everyone that suffers as I once did would only try this medicine there would be a lot less sick people in the world and for this reason I am strongly indorsing Konjola."

The Konjola Man is at the Love and Megown drug store, 204 East Washington street, New Castle, where he is daily meeting the public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy. Free samples given.

Konjola contains juices from 22 plants—more than other medicines. It is a new compound that works with the sufferer's food, restoring more healthful action to the important organs (stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels) and producing new energy and glorious health in a natural way, thru the entire inner-system.

A NEW WAY to heat your home
that is trouble-free, clean, economical, safe

The Surface Combustion Gas Heating Machine meets all the objections that have been brought against ordinary heating methods. For instance why should anybody in New Castle do the manual work of keeping his house warm?

Why bother with storing fuel; why pay for it in advance; why deliberately bring into your house fuel that is dirty, gives off a black dust, leaves another finer dust as ashes, when it burns? Why charge the minds of several people with keeping the fire going 24 hours per day; during temporary absences?

It is all unnecessary!

Heating with gas the Surface Combustion Gas Heating way, is as modern as the new car models. It meets every objection against old fashioned heating methods. It is trouble free; requires no attention from early Fall until late Spring. It is clean. You pay only as you use the gas. Because of the scientific principle of operation, it is most economical. It requires no new furnace or boiler but slips into your present equipment on removing the grate bars. Its cost is low, $175 cash installed; or $15 down and 18 months to pay the balance, with a $10 carrying charge.

BE OPEN-MINDED — Send Coupon for Information.

Before ordering your winter's fuel supply, let our engineer representatives explain Surface Combustion Heating to you. Get the facts then make up your own mind. We want to give our customers the opportunity to see and know about every improvement to make living easier and better.

Tin Plate Man Urges Hoover Be Supported

Charles Anderson Of New Wilmington Favors Republican Nominee

NEED HIGH TARIFF, ORGANIZER STATES

Workers Will Vote For Their Homes And Living Standards, He Says

By ARTHUR C. WIMER
Special Washington News Correspondent

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 20.—Declaring that all products of tin plate mills need a protective tariff, Charles Anderson of New Wilmington, an organizer of the Tin Plate Workers' International Protective Association, and a member of its executive committee, Wednesday went on record before the Republican national committee here as strongly favoring the election of Herbert Hoover as President.

The prosperity of the tin plate industry and the men who labor in it is directly dependent upon an adequate tariff, Mr. Anderson said, and for that reason alone the Republican nominee should be supported.

"Every man who works in the tin mills should vote for Herbert Hoover," the New Wilmington leader declared. "They are dependent upon the tariffs for their standard of living, which is many times higher than the standards in Europe and Asia.

"Before the enactment of the McKinley tariff of 1890 tin and tin plates were made entirely in Wales and Continental Europe. After the passage of the McKinley tariff many tin plate mills were built in the United States. The business now runs into hundreds of millions annually.

"All products that come from the mills, and especially the pig iron used to make steel for tin plate bars, need a protective tariff. It was only in recent years that pig iron was given a 50 per cent increase in tariff—an increase which was needed badly. Mr. Bowers, the keynote speaker at the Democratic national convention, pointed to the schedule on pig iron as one that must be reduced.

"Such things as I have enumerated will cause mill men to stop and think. They will forget about Governor Smith's offer of beer and vote for their homes and living standards," Mr. Anderson argued.

Women To Stump In Pennsylvania For Democrats

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt Will Speak In Behalf Of Gov Smith

By ARTHUR C. WIMER
Special Washington News Correspondent

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 20.—The speaking campaign in Pennsylvania on behalf of Governor Smith by Democratic women will be planned by means of an elaborate map system, which is expected to increase the thoroughness of the campaign, according to plans made public by the Democratic National committee.

An automobile map has been obtained and this will be used in laying out the itinerary of the women speakers who will travel about the state to take the stump. The State Democratic headquarters will furnish at least three automobiles to carry the speakers from place to place. With a system of colored pins and yarn the itineraries of the State will be charted, showing all speaking engagements and stop-overs for sleeping and eating. Campaign literature will be distributed by girls who will accompany the campaign cars.

Speaking engagements will be filled wherever there is a request and in each case a man and a woman will be sent. Among the many women who will take the stump for the New York Governor are Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Congresswoman Mary T Norton of New Jersey, Former Governor Nellie Taylor Ross of Wyoming, and Mrs. Charles Dana Gibson.

CHAPEL SESSION AT HIGH SCHOOL

Senior High School Students Hear Of Possibilities Of Football Team And Season

This morning at the Senior high school auditorium, the first chapel session of the school year was held. The initial chapel was a football chapel in which the players on this year's eleven were introducted to the students of the school.

After Principal F. L. Orth conducted devotions, several of the players and officials of the team were called on to say a few words. The first of these speakers was Faculty Manager Ralph Gardner who made a few announcements. Student Manager Edward Smith was next called on and he spoke on the schedule for this year.

The first player called was Tommy Harper the stellar full back who passed a few hints on what the outcome of the Schenley game would be. Harper before coming here was a member of that school and football team. "Art" Sillman the signal barker for this year echoed a few words on what the outcome of the Youngstown South game would be.

The next speaker on the program was William Klee physical director, and assistant coach who introduced the gridders. The final speaker was Head Coach Phil H. Bridenbaugh who spoke a few minutes on what the team this year looks like.

Teachers' Tea Room School Feature

One Of Most Appealing Places In New George Washington Junior High

Of the many attractive rooms at the new George Washington junior high school, situated on Euclid avenue, the delightful teachers' tea room is considered paramount. The room was designed with the distinct purpose of having none but teachers and guests eat there. The surroundings have been planned to correspond with the atmosphere of the dainty room, and so the furniture—the tables and chairs—has been decorated in hues to make it a beautiful one.

A two-tone greyish color scheme has been worked out by the school decorators. The students of the New Castle trade school on Lutton street made the tables and chairs and painted them in the two-tone coloring. Decorators have painted the walls of the eating room also in a dark grey and light grey hue.

The large half-moon window—and the only one in the room—to the front of the room looks out upon the downtown section of New Castle. From it on a clear day one can see the town of West Pittsburg in the faint distance. The window adds immeasurably to the beauty of the room.

It is accessible to the kitchen of the school's cafeteria, for the latter is but one room away.

Nine tables and 27 chairs provide ample accommodation for the junior high's teaching force, for only half of this number dine at one time. Plenty of room is provided for guests also.

The art department and the domestic art department are having the drapes for the large window made. Students and instructors from these departments will hang them.

The room itself presents a clever places for dining and adds to the beautification of the new structure It presents a striking appearance to all visitors, and the teachers of the school should feel proud of the fact that this tea room is their room.

Stomach Trouble Caused By Acidity

A Safe, Speedy, Lasting Relief From Acid Indigestion

Stomach troubles, gas, indigestion, bloating and sourness are in probably nine cases in ten caused by "too much acid" in the stomach. For safe, quick, certain relief, the stomach needs an alkaline to neutralize the acid, sweeten its food contents, and make digestion easy and painless.

A wonderful help in such cases is Bisurated Magnesia—powder or tablets. One teaspoonful of powder or three or four tablets in a little water instantly neutralizes the excess stomach acid and so speedily stops the pain, sourness, gas and bloating.

Bisurated Magnesia is the standard Magnesia treatment for Acid Stomach purposes, because it is so pleasant and convenient to use and gives such wonderfully quick results that McKee's Kut Rate Store, Eckerd's of New Castle, Inc. and druggists everywhere sell it on a positive guarantee of satisfactory results or money back. Try a test package on this plan, and enjoy your future meals with no more fear of indigestion.

James R. Frew Wins President's Trophy

Is Winner Of The Sweepstake Event Staged At Field Club Wednesday

Competition on Wednesday afternoon at the golf course of the New Castle Field Club was exceptionally keen. The remarkable feature of the contest, which was in the nature of a sweepstake event with full handicap allowed, is the fact that there were approximately eighty golfers in the contest.

James R. Frew was the fortunate contender in the sweepstake, turning in a low net score of 72 and winning the handsome cup offered by Thomas W. Dickey, president of the club.

Following the competition, a stag dinner and smoker was staged at the club house, which was attended by approximately forty men of the club. It was a fitting close to the affair of the day and those attending not only enjoyed the fine meal but the program of fun that was a feature of the evening after the dinner.

During the course of the evening, Mr. Frew was presented with a small cup representative of the cup that he is to receive on trophy day, which will be held at the time of the annual meeting.

She Is 63, But Has Mastered Eight Musical Instruments

Although she is 63 years old, yet Mrs. C. Frye of Girard, Ohio, is just starting her musical career. For 56 years she nursed a secret ambition to be a musician, and now that she has had her chance, she is making the most of it. Already she has had offers to appear in vaudeville.

Mrs. Frye, who was born in New Castle and still has many friends in this city, began to learn the violin when she was 56 years old, in spite of the scoffings of her husband and her friends. After 18 months of heart rending labor, she mastered the instrument and now is able to play most concert numbers.

After mastering the violin, Mrs. Frye added the harmonica to the violin. Then, after a short while she learned the saxophone, the trumpet, the baritone horn, the clarinet, the melophone, and an instrument of her own making consisting of a group of medicine bottles filled with water.

Old Post Office To Be Abandoned

Strodes Mills Office Has Been In Service For 88 Years

(International News Service)

STRODES MILLS, Pa., Sept. 20.—After 88 years of service the post-office here will be abandoned and the territory will be covered by rural delivery from Lewistown.

The postoffice here was established in 1839, three years before the first postage stamps were issued in 1842. Amer Strode, the present postmaster who loses his position on September 29 still has books in his possession showing the dispatch of mail without postage stamps when the office was first operated.

The first postmaster was Joseph Strode, the father of the present postmaster. The elder Strode continued in the service until 1898 when he retired. At that time he was considered to be the oldest postmaster in the service. Father and son have served the entire time as postmasters since the office was placed in operation.

Billy Ranieri Leads Officers In Rigid Hunt

Chicago Youth Disregard Warning Of Mafia Gang And Leads Police In Investigation

SEARCH FARMHOUSE FOR POSSIBLE CLUES

Plan Under Way Now To Deport All Undesirable Sicilians In Chicago

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Sept. 20.—Despite dire threats that he would be slain if he did not preserve the traditionary silence of the Mafia, Billy Ranieri, 10 year old Italian boy, freed by kidnappers after being held thirteen days a prisoner on an isolated farm for a ransom of $60,000, today led heavily armed cordons of Chicago Bureau detectives in a hunt for his captors.

A gigantic dragnet, the largest in Chicago police annals acting under the guidance of the child, swooped down on a lonely farmhouse located on the Fox river 40 miles from Chicago and searched it for possible clues to the boy's abductors. While the house was deserted, it tallied exactly with the description given by the lad as his captor's lair.

Give Warning

In the midst of these investigations, the mysterious Mafia again raised its head long enough to demand of its ilk and victims the stoic silence of the banditti. "Say nothing and do nothing" was the ominous warning issued from the hidden Cammorists.

As the investigation progressed two more Sicilian suspects were arrested and taken to the office of the assistant state's attorney for questioning in connection with the kidnapping. The identity of these men authorities refused to divulge, however, they intimated that the men occupied a prominent role in the extortion plots of Chicago's "Little Sicily".

In addition to these two men, police are seeking the Italian colony to unearth a doctor and a lawyer, brothers, both prominent in Sicilian circles here for questioning in connection with the abduction. Their implication came after a series of swift developments in the investigation. Close relatives of the boy disdaining the threats of the Cammorists, talked freely and told police that the doctor and lawyer were active in efforts to collect the $60,000 ransom demanded by the extortionists.

To Grill Father

While authorities are leaving nothing undone in ferretting out the boy's captors, Assistant State's Attorney Samuel Hoffman, laying careful plans to guard against the father trying to give permanence to the silence program he has maintained since the discovery of his son, will produce both father and the son in court today. Judge Frank Comerford will sit as examining magistrate for the purpose of inscribing every word of evidence in an indestructable court record. Every ounce of pressure at the command of the court will be brought to bear to make the father tell what he knows of the kidnaping plot.

Chicago Italians incensed by the activities of the Mafia extortionists are uniting with police to wipe out lawlessness on the part of their countrymen. At a conference to be called today between authorities and naturalization bureau officials the Italians intimated they would seek deportation of undesirable Sicilians.

Auto Runs 59 Miles On Gallon Of Gas

Automobile engineers who worked for years in an effort to reduce gasoline consumption have found the solution in a marvelous invention that fits all cars. An actual test made by one of the engineers showed 59 miles on a gallon of gas. Thousands of car owners have already installed this new invention. They not only report amazing gas savings, but are also surprised to find quicker pick-up, instant starting, smoother running motors and disappearance of carbon. E. Oliver, 999 344 W. Delegates Pay Fine Tribute To J. A. Gardner

A. A. Cochran Of Chester Makes Address At Memorial Meeting

DELEGATES MAKE VISIT TO CEMETERY

A. A. Cochran, city solicitor of Chester, now chairman of the law committee of the League of Third Class Cities, and who might appropriately be called a "pal" of the late James A. Gardner, former solicitor of the city and guiding hand of the league paid a brilliant tribute to his predecessor during memorial services held Wednesday at the cathedral.

Cochran had been associated with the late solicitor since the nineties and knew him intimately. When the services started with W. D. Kinney, Erie, in charge, Mr. Cochran was called upon and he delivered a touching eulogy after which delegates paid their respects to the late Gardner by traveling to Oak Park cemetery and laying large floral pieces on his burial place.

Cochran's tribute to the "grand old man of Pennsylvania municipal life" follows:

James A. Gardner

I feel that words are futile to portray the life and deeds and character of this simple minded, true hearted gentleman. He has left an impress on those who knew him. He lived the simple life not from any choice, but because he could not help but so live. His tastes and wants and his manner of living, were simple and plain. He was not enamoured of the glamour of life. The simplicity of his soul lifted him above such things. I have never known a man who was so genuine and true, and so sweet in all his thoughts and words. He never found fault, never expressed a vulgar word or thought, was always helpful, kindly and sympathetic. He was in every sense a Christian—a Christlike man.

He was mentally gifted above most men. He had a fine reasoning mind, and a retentive memory, and this with deligence which he had to a marked degree, enabled him to work out difficult problems to a correct conclusion. As a constitutional and municipal lawyer I doubt if he had a peer, and I am sure few equals.

He was the outstanding figure in municipal matters in this state for many years, particularly as to the Cities of the Third Class. He just naturally was our leader, not by any act of his, but because we all knew he had the knowledge, the reasoning power, and the experience to see the right way, the right thing to do, and what was wrong.

I first met Mr. Gardner in Scranton in 1896, I think it was, at a meeting of our cities to consider amendments to the Act of 1889, and from then until his death I was closely allied with him in municipal matters. I was younger then in years and in city work, and I learned much from him then and always. I greatly miss not being able to put up to him for solution questions that arise in my city, and in the other cities of the league submitted to me for my opinion.

He was so gentle, so kindly, so self effacing that one who did not know, might think he was bereft of fighting spirit, but not so, he was a lion, without its roar, to grapple with a problem, to present his views, to argue out a question, to stand up for the right as he viewed the right, even to offering his life in the dark days of the Civil War that the Union might be preserved. I will never forget my visit to Gettysburg with him. Judge Schoonmaker and I and Mr. Gardner. We went from Harrisburg where there had been a meeting of City Solicitors, and tho he had been there a number of times since the battle, this gentle old man, was as full of fight that day as on the days of July 1, 2 and 3, 1863, when he fought outside of and thru the town to Cemetery Ridge, and there in Cooper's Battery helped to repulse the charge of the Louisiana Tigers, and on July 3rd in the same Battery aided the smashing of Pickett's charge. There I saw the other side of his nature, and knew that in him nature had created a man full panoplied to meet life in all its manifold aspects. Since that day Gettysburg has been to me a mecca. I go there every year, and always to the places on the battlefield where my dear friend fought, and there breathe in afresh a full mead of patriotism, and a full appreciation of one of nature's nobleman.

He has gone—the world because of his life is richer and I—we—all who met him day by bay—will never forget him.

We knew him but to love him.
We name him but to praise.

As we understand it what the Izaak Walton league proposes is that we shoot fewer birds so that there will be more birds to shoot.—The Omaha World-Herald.

It's got so a fellow might just as well give up work entirely if he expects to keep up with the detective fiction.—The Detroit News.

Dan Cupid Robs Penn State Of African Co-Ed

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Sept. 20.—After traveling half way around the world to enter Penn State's freshman class, a boy and his pretty young sister from South Africa were separated by Cupid's arrow shortly after their boat docked at New York harbor. The youth, Robert W. McKune of Johannsburg, South Africa, explained that his sister Eleanor, who likewise was to have entered Penn State, preferred matrimony to a college career.

McKune told college authorities that his sister fell in love with a young Englishman during the two month's voyage from South Africa to the United States and that she became engaged to marry him shortly after their arrival in New York. Miss McKune then sent a cable to her father in Johannsburg, stating that she had become engaged and that she planned to return to South Africa at the first of next year for the wedding.

THE HOMBURGH

The newest shape is the "Homburgh". The brim is narrower and curls a great deal. The crown tapers severely. All colors. All $3.45.

SNAP DOWN BRIM

The "Snap Brim" hat is still very much in favor with the younger elements who desire a careless carefree appearance. All $3.45.

HARES FUR CRUSHER

This "Crusher" is extremely light in weight, very soft and crushable. Only Hares Fur Felt can give this non-chalant appearance. Two shades of very light tan and grey. All $3.45.

9 EXACT COPIES OF $10 MODELS

Fisher Bros. New Fall Hats Are All One Price $3.45. Popular priced, yes — but revealing the style ideas of leading Hat manufacturers and designers. "Ten Dollar Hat Styles at Three-forty Five" — eight words that tell the story of Fisher Bros. Felt Hats. Each hat shows one of the ideas of a leading $10 Hat maker. For we have selected nine Hats made by high priced manufacturers and sold at retail by high priced haberdashers for $10 and copied them exactly. You can't tell the difference. The toughest looking hats you see on a man's head today is a high priced hat — from which the purchaser is trying to get his money's worth.

Brown Is the Best Fall Color

This will be a Brown year, not for hats alone but in Men's Suits and Women's Dresses, in Children's Novelty Suits and Ladies' Stockings. We particularly wish to stress the new brown shades in Men's Hats . . . . it is a very dark brown. These are $3.45 at Fisher Bros.

THE "HOMBURGH" IS THE NEWEST FALL SHAPE

This year you'll spot a high priced hat wearer trying to get his money's worth out of last year's hat mighty quickly—for the new hat has a very much narrower brim which curls decidedly and a crown that tapers severely. You'll find the new "Homburghs" priced only at $3.45 at Fisher Bros.

† Eight of the nine exact copies of $10 Hats are sketched and illustrated on this page.

THE CAMPAIGNER

The "Campaigner" is a modification of the new style trend. The brim is slightly wider than the Homburgh and is silk bound. This conservative Hat is $3.45.

THE SILK BOUND

The "Silk Bound" Hat still remains in favor with the conservative business man. The silk edge adds a touch of dignity. All $3.45.

DARK BROWNS & BLACKS

The new "Brown" is extremely dark. This new shade will rise to great popularity this winter for it's a brown year. Also blacks in this straight brim conservative shape. All $3.45.

NOT JUST A FEW HATS AT $3.45 BUT 15 SHAPES IN 20 SHADES . . . . . ALL OF 'EM

Since all faces are not alike Fisher Bros. have 15 different hat styles. Not one or two hat shapes at $3.45 but 15 hat styles in twenty colors at $3.45. Some stores somewhere may offer larger selections, frankly we do not know. But we do know, that the hats nine of ten men want and wear are here at $3.45. Main Floor at Entrance.

THE AL SMITH BROWN DERBY

The Brown Derby will be a popular style this year — for brown is the leading shade of fall—for derby's will be good this year—and because many men will wish to show their political preference. Exact copies of the Al Smith Brown Derby are $3.45. Black Derbys too at this price.

THE HERBERT HOOVER HAT

The certainty of the Homburgh shaped hat's popularity has been assured by the nomination of Herbert Hoover. For the Republican nominee has long favored a curled narrow Brim Hat which he sometimes snaps down. Exact copies of this hat are priced at $3.45 at Fisher Bros. This is a conservative style.

New Junior High Will Have Model Airplane Contest

Event Will Take Place Early In October, Says B. K. Thacker

Preparations are being made at the present time by officials at the new George Washington junior high school on Euclid avenue for the coming indoor model airplane contest in the gymnasium of the school sometime during the first or second week in October. The contest will be strictly limited to the pupils of the new junior high institution.

A set of rules containing full information concerning the affair has been issued to all boys and girls who are students there. It is hopes that the indoor event will stimulate further interest in flying, that it may serve as a preliminary to a greater all-city outdoor contest which could easily be held later in the fall.

The principal of the junior high, Browne K. Thacker, declares that similar contests have been held thruout the country. Only recently the boys of Parnassus competed for honors with their model ships, constructed with the idea of having their entrant remain in the air for the longest period of time. The miniature planes will be judged for time and distance and possibly perfection in design and construction.

Launched By Hand.

In the George Washington students' contest no restriction will be placed on the design of the model except that it shall have a distance between the propeller bearing and the motor hook, fastened to the opposite end of the motor stick, not to exceed 15 inches. All models must be hand launched and the only motive power be derived from the use of rubber bands. The winner of the first place shall be the owner and builder of the model which has remained in flight for the longest time, and other of the second place, the longest elapsed time.

"The contest," says Mr. Thacker, "is to acquaint the boys and others of the school with the construction, design and functioning of large airplanes. As each entrant will have to build his own plane model, the work will naturally give the boy a better knowledge of modern aircraft. We would like to see the interest in these contests grow, and feel that it will, so that a regular city championship outdoor meet could be held."

Unclaimed Letters Should Be Returned

Government Asks Postal Employes To Co-operate In Returning Letters

By ARTHUR C. WIMER
Special Washington News Correspondent

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 20.—Post office employees at New Castle, in a general order sent out by the United States post office department, have been requested to familiarize themselves with the provisions of the postal laws and regulations covering the treatment of an unclaimed letter bearing the card of a hotel, school, college or other public institution, postal authorities here state.

Failure properly to observe the provisions of this regulation is the cause of many justifiable complaints by patrons of the service, and to minimize such errors in the handling of undeliverable mail the post office department has requested employees the country over to study the postal code.

Numerous complaints are being received by the department because of the failure of postmasters at offices of address to note the return requests on letters from hotels and public institutions, resulting in missending them to the dead letter office when undeliverable to the addresses, instead of returning them direct to the writers.

Undeliverable letters bearing the cards of hotels and public institutions and return requests should be returned to the senders and not consigned to the dead letter office, post office officials state.

Kathleen Norris Supports Hoover

Woman Novelist Will Support Republican Candidate In November Election

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 20.—Kathleen Norris, noted novelist and hitherto a Democratic worker in California, her home state, will support Herbert Hoover in the coming election, she declared today in a statement to W. H. Hill of the New York state Hoover-Curtis campaign committee.

Mrs. Norris expressed thorough confidence that he will be elected and that his candidacy is one for which loyal American women have been waiting.

"My own vote will be cast for Herbert Hoover next November because he seems to me to be not only the strongest candidate in this particular election, but the best man that either party has had to offer for many, many years," she said.

NOT GUILTY.

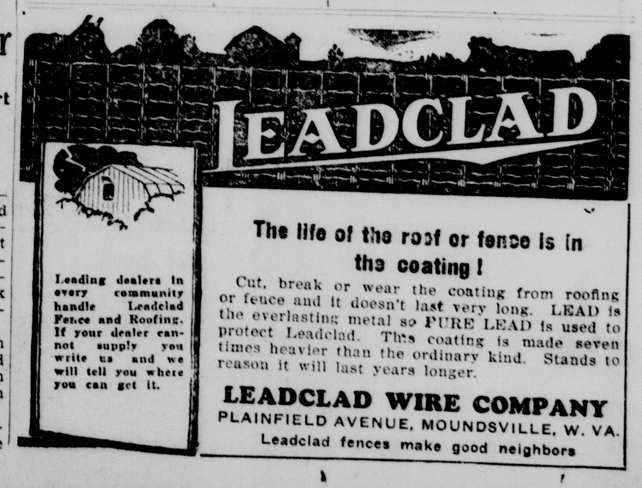

With swift, decided strokes the artist painted in the colored clouds of evening sunset.

Presently he noticed an aged rustic gazing somberly at the result of his labors.

"Ah" said the painter, "perhaps you too, can read the sky picture friend? Perhaps you have seen the lambent flame of dawn leaping across the livid east, the red-stained sulphurous islets floating in a lake of fire?"

"No" replied the rustic shirtly "I haven't—not since I signed the pledge."—Answers, London.

The Maine election could not be rightfully considered as a straw to show the direction of the political wind; it was a load of straw.—The Seattle Daily Times.

Croton School Has 500 Pupils

School Band Is Again Being Organized; To Play At Fair

FLOWER CONTEST, OPERETTA PLANNED

Around 500 boys and girls are attending sessions at the Croton elementary school on Croton avenue this year, an increase of about 60 or more students over the complete enrollment for the 1927-28 term.

One portable is being used at the school grounds as a means of diverting the crowded conditions in the main building. All of the work that was done on the school throughout the summer months has been finished, with the exception of a few meager details.

New Teachers

Fourteen teachers comprise the faculty at the school this year, four having been added to the staff at the opening of the present term a little over a week ago. The new instructors, all from New Castle, are as follows: Miss Mary Long, music; Miss Mildred Cannon, academic primary; Miss Marjorie Snyder, special primary and Miss Lillian Fishkin, primary special.

The famed Croton band, composed of boys of this elementary school, has again re-organized for this year's work. Approximately 30 boys have joined the band this year, and practices for their New Castle Fair Day concert are already under way. The band will play in the bandstand at the grounds on the day school children are dismissed for this occasion. Miss Mary Long, the new music instructor, is in direct charge of the organization this year and has Miss Sara Keast as her assistant. Prof. W. A. Hoffmaster, the principal of the school, although not in direct charge of the band, still remains as general supervisor over the boys.

Will Start Clubs

The platoon system of organization is being used in this building with school periods of 45 and 90 minutes in length. All special work is done in the smaller period while all academic studies are scheduled for the 90-minute periods.

Several students' clubs functioned at the school last year, according to statements of the teachers, but so far nothing to this effect has been commenced this term. They say that this matter will be brought up at a later date.

Plan Contests

The school library has been opened again this term, a number of volumes being added to the collection this year. This department was innaugurated last year and has become one of great activity and interest.

A flower contest and an operetta are two of the things in the planning for the Croton students. Miss Ruth Drescher, the nature study teacher, is making arrangements for the former. The children of each room will grow bulbs and at Thanksgiving it will be determined just what room has grown the best flowers.

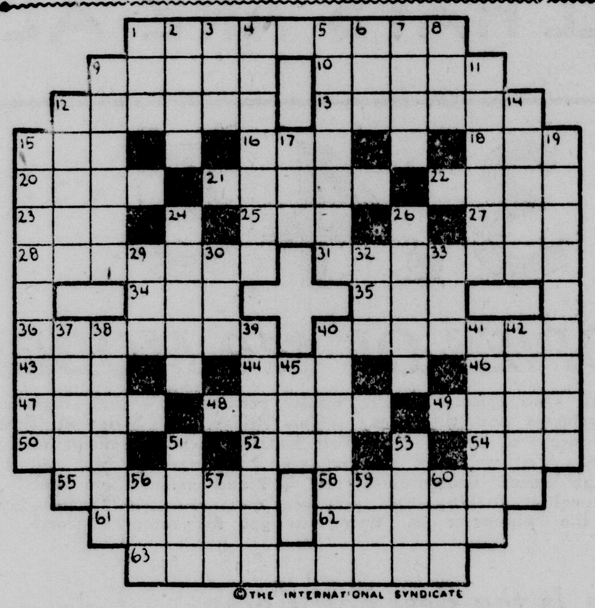

THAT'S SOMETHING ELSE.

Teacher—A burnt child dreads fire. Now, children, give me another proverb like that but with a different subject.

Pupil—A washed child dreads the water.—From Le Moustique, Charleroi.

The danger in electing a town-born President is that historical societies will have too many apartment houses to preserve.—The Olean Herald.

PETER'S ADVENTURES in ANIMAL LAND

BY MRS. FLORENCE SMITH VINCENT

PETREL "STANDS BY."

"The stranger was as kindhearted a bird as ever lived ,if Cormorant's story is to be believed. Upon Cormorant's cry of despair he flew nearer to him.

"'Take a tip from me and fly with the wind even if it does take you from your course' advised he, 'You will gain nothing trying to mach your strength against it, you will only be battered to pieces and fall into the sea.

"'See how wild the waves are getting? Soon they will rise like mountains and growing so angry because with all their trying so hard to get somewhere they never can they will give it up and break into pieces from sheer anger. They will froth and foam, so mad will they be and if you fell upon them they would be glad and would tear you to bits.

"'You thought I did not know what I was talking about when I told you a storm was coming. Look. At first that cloud was hardly more than a speck in the sky. Now in a moment you will see no sky at all but only a dark curtain that will hide it from your eyes.'

"Cormorant looked up and just then the last speck of sunlight was wiped right out of the sky and everything became as dark as if it was night.

"The wind whistled about poor Cormorant's ears and the water roared beneath him and he was quite sure that more than one wave reared itself up and tried its best to drag him down beneath it.

"'What shall I do? What shall I do?' cried poor Cormorant now nearly beside himself with terror. 'I felt quite sure that something was going to happen but I never dreamed of anything so terrible as this. I shall be drowned. I who have always loved the water and never thought to lose my life at sea. Oh! Oh! That last blast nearly broke my wing. Goodby Petrel. I am lost but I beg of you to tell my family should you ever meet any of them, that I thought of them at the last. Would that I had never left home, Now I shall never see my dear ones again.'

'Petrel however encouraged him. Floating along directly beneath him he talked steadily.

"'Now old chap don't give up like that' said he. 'You will come out of this all right. Do as I tell you—change your course to the left; fine, that is the trick; now stop making such frantic efforts to fly. Just keep your wings moving slowly and the wind will do the rest. It will carry you right along. Don't come quite so near me—there, that is better, now the spray can't wet you.'"

Next—"Ship Ahoy."

CUBS team baffled!

In Challenge Flavor Test

not one player detects slightest difference between most expensive spread-for-bread and

JELKE

MARGARINE

The Challenge Flavor Test made at Wrigley Field, Chicago, just before a 10 to 5 victory over the Phillies. Every member of the team was on hand. Not a single player could tell any difference

If the Cubs cannot find any difference, who can? Can you? Are you sure?

Make the test yourself. Let your family decide. See how the Challenge Test points for you the way to happier, better housekeeping through GOOD LUCK economy. Get a package today.

VICTORIES for the athletes who make up Chicago's famous Cubs team depend upon the players being kept well fed and happy. Only the finest of foods are provided them on railroad dining cars and in the hotels where the club is quartered while on tour or at home.

Surely, you would say, if there was any difference between the flavor of Jelke GOOD LUCK Margarine and the most expensive spread-for-bread, these expert judges of fine food would quickly detect it.

Yet when the twenty-seven players were asked to taste both and to tell which was which, not one man was able to distinguish one from the other.

Beloved Rogue Of France To Be Shown At Cathedral

"He is a bawdy fellow; a thief, a pickpocket, a pillager, guilty of sacrilege and incorrigible."

That is how the King's Procurator described the talents of one M. Francois Villon, whose life is the subject of "The Vagabond King", which will be produced Friday evening, Sept. 21, at the Scottish Rite Cathedral auditorium.

At the tender age of 12 years Villon was admitted to the Sorbonne, in Paris, then and now the hub of the intellectual universe. And then begins his career of vast veneries. Every night (when he was not composing the poems which were to make him one of the immortals), he spent at the tavern or brothel, in company with other rogues of the time who did not become as famous as Francois. In 1449, when he was 18 years old, he received his bachelorate from the Sorbonne and in 1452 he was made a Master.

The most brilliant poet, the most brilliant scholar and the most brilliant thief that France ever produced then began his career of crime, which led to his banishment in 1463. First he was guilty of a murder, and while languishing in the jail house he wrote his Petit Testament. Then he was a figure in the robbery of the College of Navarre at Sorbonne, and left Paris.

But the city, the whole of which he considered his particular goose which should be plucked at all opportunities, called him back, and in 1460 we find him sentenced to death for one of the many crimes of which he was guilty. But he was released. The next year he was imprisoned and again released by the College of Theology at the Sorbonne. Then he wrote the Grand Testament. But, because he participated in one duello too many, he was sentenced to be "hanged and strangled" in 1462. In 1463 this sentence was changed to 10 years' banishment. Te left Paris, and here all trace of the beloved rogue ends.

Like the father of Jurgen, Villon committed every sin in the calendar and invented several new ones before his untimely end. Bolstered by the music of Rudolph Friml, "The Vagabond King" should prove to be one of the most interesting musical shows ever to be presented in New Castle.

Roma Turns Back, Escapes Terrific Storm On Atlantic

Maine To Rome Fliers Thankful That Engine Trouble Forced Them Back

(International News Service)

OLD ORCHARD BEACH, Me., Sept. 20.—While the Roma crew was today thanking the hand of fate that crippled the engine of their giant Sesquiplane preventing its flight into the heart of a terrific storm that broke over the Atlantic, repair work was underway in the hopes that another take off could be made within a few days.

The Roma was forced to return 20 minutes after its first take off because of a broken airtake on the carburetor, caused by a backfire.

Immediately on the return of the crew to the hangar disappointed on their failure, Commander Cesare Sebelli received a telegram that a storm was breaking over the Atlantic.

Had the take off been successful, it is believed that the plane would have flown directly into the path of the disturbance and possibly have been wrecked.

Record Enrollment Is Made On First Day; Nearly 100 Seniors

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Sept. 20.—Registration at Westminster College got under way in the gymnasium yesterday morning at nine o'clock and was continued until noon. Again in the afternoon scores of students crowded the gym floor in an effort to get lined up for classes early.

The total enrollment yesterday was 475, which is far greater than any previous first day figure. Of this number 98 are seniors, 104 are juniors, 115 are sophomores and 158 are freshmen.

With such a large group registering on the first day, it is thought now that the enrollment for the year will exceed that of last year, which was 535. At all events, Westminster will have one of the largest senior classes in the history of the college. The largest number ever graduated is 75, which number received degrees at the commencement last June.

Registration was continued this morning until 11 o'clock, when a general chapel service, in the nature of a convocation, was held in the United Presbyterian church. This afternoon will complete enrollment for the 77th college year, although there are always a few who do not enroll until the end of the week.

One Horse And Buggy Found In Heart Of City

A horse and buggy? Yessir, and right in the very heart of the city and nobody knew anything about it.

Fred Main who lives in the old postoffice building on South Mercer street, has a nice little black driving horse, a buggy, and he uses them. Mr. Main purchased the horse and buggy about two years ago and has been using it quite a bit ever since.

He hunts quite a bit and when he goes out to the country to pursue his groundhogs or foxes or whatever it might be, he does not crank up the family bus. Indeed he does not. He merely goes to the stable and extracts dobbin, hitches up and without stopping at a gas tank for supplies or changing a tire, he drives out to the country unworried by the joy killers of motoring.

It seems that this is the only horse and buggy being "owned and operated" in New Castle. There are several horses and wagons, several two-horse wagons for delivery companies and even a team of mules but to Mr. Main goes the honor of the horse and buggy.

Horses Scarce.

Investigation at the blacksmith shops in the city, just three horseshoers, by the way,, shows that the horse is getting scarce in the city as well as the county, despite what any one else may say.

Fewer horses are seen and there are very few shod in the blacksmith shops. There are three horseshoeing shops in the city today. Where six men used to work in a shop from morning to night and a long line of horses and wagons on the waiting list, an occasional horse comes in these days.

However, one thing must be taken into account. There are several thousand horses in Lawrence county but they are seldom being shod.

In the former halcyon days the horse was used as a go between and means of locomotion to town and back at least once every week. The pavements and road made it necessary to have a horse shod. Then in the winter shoeing was a weekly occurrence when ice was on the roads.

Today, horses are used on the farms and that is the extent of it. They rarely leave the farm, as most farmers have cars to drive to town or a truck when they wish to haul any produce. Thus there is much less shoeing done on account of existing conditions rather than because of the decline of the family horse.

There is at least one livery stable left in New Castle where there used to be many. Most of them have been turned into garages of some sort and farmers find it difficult to get proper accommodations for a horse when they do bring them to town.

The veterinaries however are the only ones connected directly with horses who have not lost out considerably. The county has grown so in the dairy industry that the horse has not been missed to any great extent. At least not by them. Cattle and dogs are the veterinaries chief claim attention now adays.

No More Blacksmiths.

The big difficulty for the future is that there will still be quite a few horses but who will shoe them? Most all of the blacksmiths who are now at the job are men of some years. When they are gone, where will the horseshoeing be done? There is not a soul learning the trade at the present time. It will be a lost art.

Three horseshoers are in the city of New Castle today. They have no apprentices and it is not likely that any one will show up to ask for such a position. Years ago there were many young fellows awaiting their chance to get into a shop to learn the trade.

It isn't a trade that can be learned in a day or through the mail. It takes years to get the "hang" of it, say horseshoers who have been in the game for many years.

Not only does the horse pass but so must the mighty smith of oak tree fame.

Violators Of Food Laws Prosecuted

Artificial Coloring Causes Most Of The 78 Prosecutions

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Sept. 20.—Seventy-eight prosecutions for violation of the pure food laws were made during the past month, the state bureau of foods and chemistry anounced today. Prosecutions were made for violation of 13 different laws in 23 counties.

Use of artificial coloring pastries and in fruits used in their baking caused the largest number of the arrests. Seven arrests were made for the use of artificially colored fruit in pies, six for using artificially colored jelly in jelly rolls and three for selling artificially colored fruit syrup.

Sale of eggs labeled "fresh" but which did not meet the requirements of the bureau resulted in ten arrests in Philadelphia alone. Eleven prosecutions were made for sale of milk and cream low in fat and solids in Allegheny, Blair, Philadelphia and Sulivan counties.

Claims Aunt and Friends Also Were Benefited by Famous Ten Herbs.

"I think it is marvelous the way Ten Herbs has relieved me, as I feel better and stronger in every respect," was the recent statement of Mrs. L. J. O'Donnell, 15 Noblestown Road, Crafton, Pa., (near Pittsburgh), according to the Ten Herbs Man, who is at Eckerd's of New Castle, Inc., 30 East Washington Street, New Castle, where he is daily demonstrating this great natural medicine to crowds of men and women. "I suffered about three years and never found any relief until I used Ten Herbs," Mrs. O'Donnell continued.

MRS. L. J. O'DONNELL

"My appetite was poor, and even though I ate scarcely anything, I would be nauseated and have pains. Gas would bloat me terribly, and there would be a sour, acid taste in my mouth. I was constipated, and had dizziness and headaches. I was so nervous I was restless during the day and could not sleep at night. Upon arising in the morning I felt stiff and had severe pains across my back. I lost about all energy and ambition.

"Now, since taking Ten Herbs, it seems like a dream to enjoy meals once more and never have pain or nauseated feeling. I am free of gas, bloating, and sour, acid taste. Biliousness, dizzy spells and headaches have left me, and so have the pains across my back. My nerves are stronger, and I enjoy "the sleep of the just," as the old saying goes. I am gaining in every way and it shows in my complexion. My advise to sufferers is: Profit by the experience of others, and try Ten Herbs. My aunt and several friends are using Ten Herbs and are getting the same good results that I got. I advise the public to do likewise."

The Ten Herbs Man is at Eckerd's of New Castle, Ins., 30 East Washington Street, New Castle, where he is daily meeting the public and explaining the merits of this medicine.

Football Season Opens On Saturday On Local Field

Grove City Squad Presents Formidable Array Of Strength For First Game

Coach Lee Of Local Squad Has Several New Men In E. C. H. S. Team

ELLWOOD CITY, Sept. 20.—The first game of the 1928 football season looms dark for the local squad, for the opening contest is with the strong Grove City High school squad, which has a record of only one defeat last year.

Coach Lee is unfortunate to the extent that he is breaking in about seven new men on the local squad. However, both Coach Lee and Assistant Coach Bartholomew express sanguine hopes of victory on Saturday, when the visitors play on the local athletic field.

Ellwood and Grove City are starting their schedules a week earlier than many other schools, and for a time it was feared that the warm weather would be against them. But if the football weather which has arrived this week still holds, all conditions should be good.

Coach Lee and his assistant have been driving the squad hard for the past few days to overcome a handicap enjoyed by Grove City in the way of a week spent in training camp. However there are a few old faithfuls left on the team and if they are up to par, the contest Saturday should prove most interesting.

Legion To Elect Officers Friday

Other Matters Of Importance Will Also Be Considered At This Time

Meeting of Perry S. Gaston post No. 343, American Legion, to be held Friday evening at the Legion Home on North Jefferson street, will be one of great importance to the entire membership.

At this session, officers to serve for the ensuing year will be selected and there will also be matters of the utmost importance to the post considered at this time.

Adding to the interest of the meeting will be the lunch to be served at the close of the evening. Indications are that there will be a record attendance of the members Friday evening to participate in the election and other business of the evening.

Philadelphia Police Arrest Extortionist, Raskobs' Threatened

Former Auditor For Pennsylvania Railroad Held In Extortion Plot

Says Governor Smith Will Need New Campaign Manager; Was After $100,000

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 20.—"There will be a funeral soon and Governor Al Smith will need a new campaign manager," declared Frank Mooney, 67, a former auditor of the Pennsylvania railroad, when held in $10,000 bail for court today on charges of attempted extortion and blackmailing Mrs. John J. Raskob, wife of Governor Smith's campaign manager, according to police.

Mooney was arrested as he stepped from the North Philadelphia post office after he was alleged to have mailed a letter to Mrs. Raskob in which he threatened to kill her husband unless he was paid $100,000 in $50 bills.

The first letter sent to the Claymont farm home of the Raskobs in Delaware threatened to blow up the farm if $100,000 in Liberty bonds was not forthcoming. Then the request was changed to cash and threatened Raskob's life.

At the hearing today he declared he was connected with the recent failure of an elevator in New York in which Raskob and several others fell more than 10 stories before the elevator was checked in its mad descent.

"Next time he won't be so lucky," said Mooney.

RELIEF WORKERS FACE APPALLING TASK IN REGION

white persons and 68 negroes had been taken out of the adjacent waters.

Seven miles away, South Bay reported 140 dead and 25 per cent of them white persons.

Danger of Pestilence.

So great were the demands for boxes, so few the trucks that were able to get through the muck and water 45 miles from West Palm Beach, that some of the unclaimed and unidentified bodies were buried where they were found. The danger of pestilence was recognized by physicians.

S. W. Hiatt, a Palm Beach county agricultural agent, reported after a tour of the everglades section on Lake Okeechobee that 600 were dead there and that between 600 and 650 others were believed to have been drowned when the Lake Okeechobee dikes gave way on Sunday night.

Relief Work Progress

Commander J. McClellan, in charge of relief work at Pahokee, estimated that the deaths in the Bell Glade-Pahokee district will total 500 and may reach 1,000. The West Palm Beach Red Cross has not recognized these totals as official, however.

Cutting of communication with this section is threatened. Relief workers fear that a sweeping epidemic may wipe out the remaining survivers if they are unable to reach this area.

Meanwhile the weary-eyed relief workers in West Palm Beach, many of them remaining on the job for sixty hours at a stretch, nursed 10,000 injured and planned to rebuild the devastated area. Carloads of building supplies, along with food and clothing are pouring into the city.

Florida Aids

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Sept. 20.—With details of the horror and suffering resultant from the tropical hurricane which cut a path of desolation sixty miles wide in South Florida, practically all in, Floridians today were turning their energies to a program of relief.

Never before in the history of Florida has stark misery followed in the wake of a catastrophe that compares with the desolation prevalent in the Palm Beach storm area today.

Mothers are frantic because of the shortage of nourishment and clothing for their children—fathers and husbands are helpless in their despair over a situation and conditions which they in no way can control and if official and unofficial reports from all sections of the storm ravished area are true the loss of life from exposure and hunger will exceed that of the hurricane unless immediate aid is given.

Frantic Appeals

Following frantic appeals from relief agencies in the storm area, officials and refugees a committee of Jacksonville citizens and officials issued an appeal for money and clothing.

The appeal, in part, read:—

"Babies are crying for food in South Florida's hurricane devastated area. Children are naked and hungry. Mothers are submerged in hopelessness. Homes have been ruined, business wrecked, death has ridden. Desolution rules."

Response to the appeal was prompt and yesterday afternoon a carload of clothing was dispatched to West Palm Beach for distribution. The committee in charge of securing funds and supplies expressed confidence that additional supplies and a substantial amount of money would be sent to the storm sufferers today.

Conditions Terrible

Refugees coming into Jacksonville for medical relief or enroute to other states describe conditions in the Palm Beaches and the vicinity of Lake Okeechobee as horrible beyond description. Carl Anderson, of West Palm Beach, described numberous bodies floating in the high water near Pahokee and other scenes of suffering among the living that beggar description.

Arrangements have been completed here to care for the housing and feeding of the refugees and it is expected that they will arrive in increasing numbers. For the past two days refugees have been trickling into Jacksonville but most of them were not in need of assistance.

Supplies of serum and disinfectants are being gathered together here against the possibility of disease following the probable non-functioning of the sanitary systems in the area.

In moving refugees to other sections of the nation, practically all rail lines serving directly and indirectly have agreed to furnish this transportation free.

Imperative need for immediate supplies for the storm stricken area was stressed in a message received by the citizens relief committee from P. H. Harrison, president of the Jacksonville chamber of commence. Harrison made his requests for supplies following a conference with George W. Carr, general chairman of the relief committee at West Palm Beach.

Harrison's telegram asked for 4,000 cots, 4,000 blankets, 1,000 pillows, four carloads roofing paper, 500 gallons of milk, 500 lanterns, twenty five cases candles, one carload staple groceries, and assorted clothing for one thousand people.

"Urgently needed for refugees of Lake Okeechobee region", he wired. "Need badly chloride and lime or coal tar disinfectant."

Harrison placed the committee estimate of four hundred deaths as conservative and predicted the actual count will probably run over five hundred.

Part of the electric light service has been restored and water service is working satisfactorily, comparatively, according to Harrison. The storm was a great deal more severe than the Miami blow, he said.

Practically all the supplies requested by Harrison are being shipped out.

Central Press telephoto, the first to be wired out of storm-stricken Florida, of the West Indian hurricane as it struck West Palm Beach, causing tremendous property damage, and large loss of life. Middle Atlantic States Take Toll Of Storm Damage

Eleven Deaths Reported In Storm That Strikes Atlantic Coast Towns

SEVERAL INJURED, NONE SERIOUSLY

Shipping Along Entire Coastal Front Is Crippled; Damage Not Over $250,000

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20—The middle Atlantic section, lashed by the tail of the West Indian hurricane, began today to take toll of its death and damage.

So far 11 deaths have been reported. Several were injured, but not seriously. Damage is not expected to exceed $250,000.

Communication lines were crippled. Highways were blocked and streams and rivers flooded. Portions of the lowland areas were flooded but the water is fast receding.

Generally fair and warmer weather was reported over the coast area.

Shipping Delayed.

The storm, diminishing as it went, apparently passed out to sea near Cape Hatteras.

Norfolk, Newport News, Virginia Beach, Baltimore and other points on the coast and Chesapeake bay suffered damage from the high winds. It was mostly in the form of broken windows, trees and crops blown over, roofs damaged and telephone and telegraph lines put out of commission.

Shipping was delayed as vessels took to shelter in harbors and bays until the storm passed.

Three persons were killed in Baltimore. Property damage was reported along the eastern short of Maryland.

One man was killed in Norfolk and three deaths were reported in the Carolinas.

The Severn river at Annapolis has gone over the sea wall at the Naval Academy and several waterfront streets were flooded. Three sailboats at the academy were sunk. Ferry service across the bay has been halted.

Four deaths were reported in the Pennsylvania-New Jersey-Delaware tri-state district.

McGovern Claims Several Judges Named By Fraud

Allegheny County Commissioner Charges Judges Elected Illegally

WILSON-VARE PROBE OFF TILL OCTOBER

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 20.—With the sessions of the Vare-Wilson senatorial contest investigation adjourned until early in October, local political circles buzzed with comment on the charges of C. C. McGovern, minority member of the Allegheny county commission, that fraud and irregularities have marked Pittsburgh elections in recent years.

Specifically, McGovern charged that Judge Thomas J. Ford was elected by alleged fraud and corruption during the 1927 contest.

Nelson McVicar was one of the defeated candidates for judge, whose failure to win was due to alleged fraud, McGovern said.

Pressed for other names, McGovern said all of the nine judges elected last year benefitted to some degree by the same alleged corruption.

McGovern laid no blaim at Judge Ford's door for the alleged fraud, however.

Judge Ford, McVicar and District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner could not be reached here today for comment.

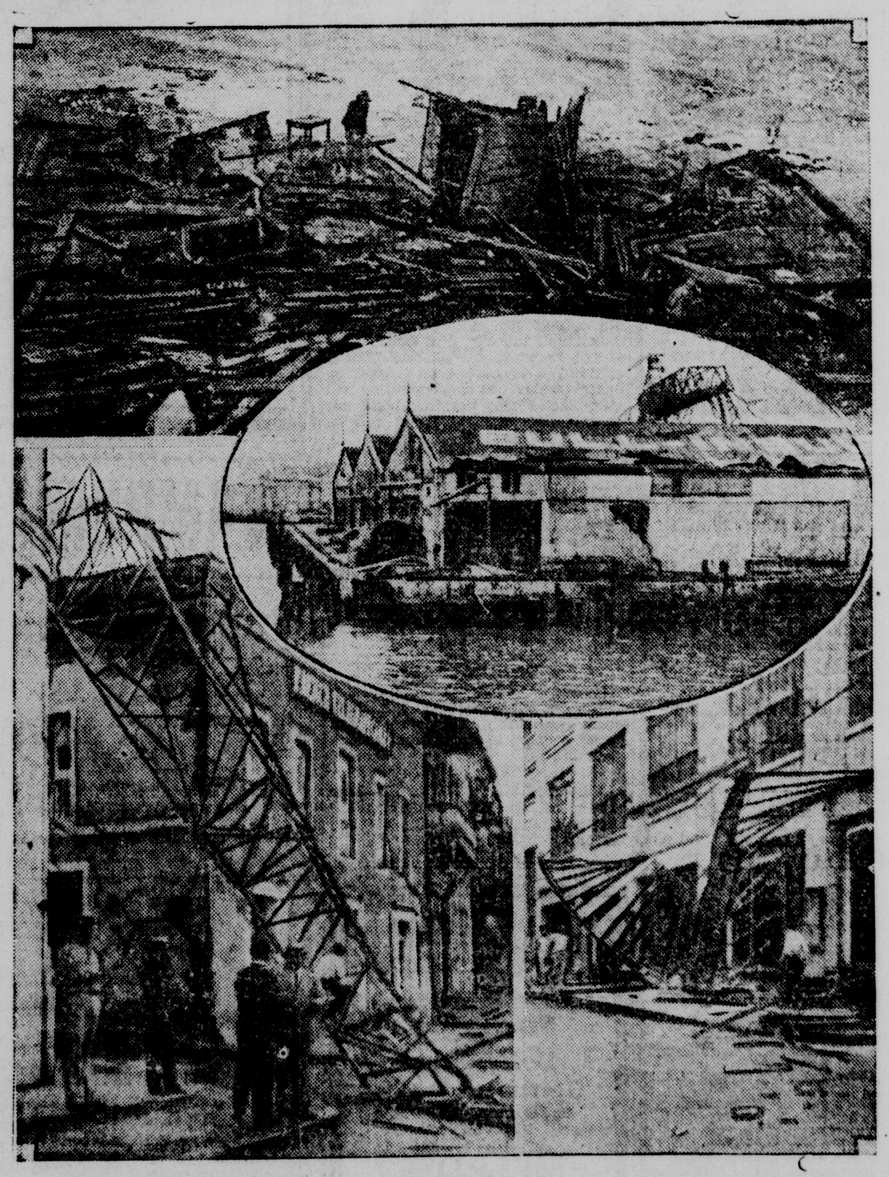

The hearings of the Waterman committee probably will come to a close next month, after the locale of the investigation moves once more to Philadelphia and Pittsburgh.

On October 5, at Philadelphia, the committee will examine ballots cast in the Vare-Wilson contest and then probably move on to Pittsburgh for additional oral testimony and further examination of ballots.

The shifting of the committee to Pittsburgh depends upon the length of the committee's stay in Philadelphia.

Thousands of ballots, laid aside for further examination during the recount of votes in the election will be scrutinized closely for irregularities. These ballots are said to have shown signs of having been tampered.

Mrs. Reimold Is Exonerated By Coroner's Jury

Verdict Of Unavoidable Accident At Inquest On Death Of Patrick McCreighton

EYE-WITNESSES ALL AGREE ON DETAILS

That the death of Patrick McCreighton on Friday, September 14, was due to an unavoidable accident was the verdict of a jury at an inquest held by Coroner J. P. Caldwell at the office of Alderman Mantz last night.

McCreighton died at the New Castle hospital as a result of injuries sustained when he collided with an automobile driven by Mrs. Olivia Reimold of Smithfield street.

Driver Testifies.

Mrs. Reimold testified that she was coming east on West Washington street, When near Norris alley she saw a man starting to cross the street. He was about three feet from the curb when she first caught sight of him. She was close to him and blew her horn. Instead of stopping he started to run across in front of the machine and ran into the right front fender. He fell back, his head striking the pavement. The machine was stopped immediately alongside of where he fell.

Mrs. Reimold said that she was driving at between five and ten miles an hour. When she saw that McCreighton was going to try to run ahead of the machine, she swerved toward the left but could not get out of the way. After the accident the man was placed in her car and taken to the New Castle hospital. It was found that his skull had been fractured when his head hit the pavement.

Eye Witness Testifies.

George F. Brand, who was an eye-witness of the accident said that he saw McCreighton step off the curb and start to cross the street. When McCreighton was about three feet from the curb the witness heard Mrs Reimold sound her horn.

"McCreighton" said the witness "did not look toward the machine but throwing his head down started to run across the street. Mrs. Reimold swerved her car to the left and McCreighton ran into the front fender. The car was stopped immediately alongside of McCreighton. Mrs. Reimold was driving slowly and I do not believe she was to blame for the accident which would have happened to anybody under similar circumstances."

Frank Consello was also an eye witness. He said that he heard Mrs Reimold blow her horn and saw McCreighton about three feet from the curb at the time. "When the horn sounded" said he, "the man started to run as though to get ahead of the machine and ran into the front fender. Mrs. Reimold swerved her car to avoid striking him."

Charles Morgan who arrived on the scene just after the accident, assisted in putting McCreighton in Mrs Reimold's car. The car had stopped imediately alongside of where the man was lying. The place where the accident happened was not a regular street crossing.

The jury was composed of A. English, Harry C. Turner, W. Thellman, R. E. Cage, Frank G. Hodon and S. A. Winternitz.

The Story Of Our War With Spain
The Destruction Of Cervera's Fleet—II

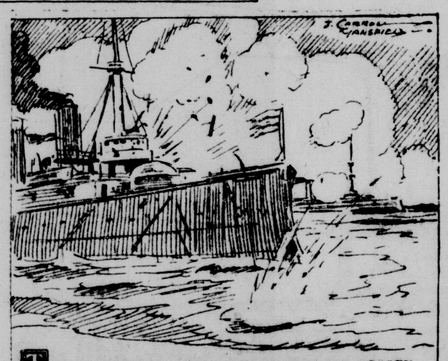

DASHING OUT OF THE HARBOR OF SANTIAGO LEADING THE LINE OF SPANISH WARSHIPS, CERVERA'S FLAGSHIP, "MARIA TERESA", TURNED WESTWARD AND HEADED FOR THE CRUISER "BROOKLYN", HOPING TO RAM HER AND BREAK THROUGH THE AMERICAN BLOCKADE.

THE "BROOKLYN" DODGED THE SPANIARD BY CIRCLING TO THE EAST, AND CAME BACK TO THE WEST ON A COURSE THAT BROUGHT HER PARALLEL TO THE SPEEDING "MARIA TERESA". ONCE OUTSIDE THE HARBOR, THE REST OF THE SPANISH VESSELS TURNED WESTWARD AND FOLLOWED IN THE WAKE OF THEIR FLAGSHIP.

THIS MANEUVER SEALED THEIR DOOM. IF THEY HAD SCATTERED, ONE AND POSSIBLY TWO OF THE SPANISH SHIPS MIGHT HAVE ESCAPED TO SEA. AS IT WAS, EACH AMERICAN VESSEL TACKLED THE NEAREST SPANIARD, AND THE BATTLE BECAME A SERIES OF DUELS BETWEEN MIGHTY IRONCLADS. THE AIM OF THE AMERICAN GUNNERS WAS EXCELLENT, WHILE THAT OF THE ENEMY WAS VERY POOR.

THE THUNDER OF THE GREAT GUNS WAS DEAFENING, AND THE BLACK SMOKE POURING FROM THE FUNNELS OF THE MADLY RACING SHIPS ALMOST BLOTTED THEM FROM VIEW. IT WAS NOT LONG BEFORE SOME OF THE SPANISH VESSELS WERE IN GREAT DISTRESS.

Giants And Cardinals Open Crucial Series

League Lead In National Loop Hangs In Balance As Teams Meet In Twin Bill

Cardinals Can Just About Cinch Flag Today By Double Victory

By DAVIS J. WALSH
Sports Editor International News Service

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—Two thin ball games, a mere nothing if you speak quickly, were all that separated New York today from the prospective distinction of an all-community world series but they didn't seem a bit more than twenty to the Giants as they made ready to have at the St. Louis Cardinals in the most nervous moment the very nervous National League race of 1928 has known. Two games in one afternoon between two contenders, whose margin of separation was—two games. A double defeat for the league-leading Cardinals this afternoon and the race will be tied, with only nine games to go. A similar disaster for the Giants and—pouf! Just like that. Oblivion.

Crowd Storms Gates.

The burden of proof most certainly was upon the Giants as a crowd of 50,000 stormed the gates at the Polo Grounds for its second serious "serious" within a matter of ten days. Long before noon, the boys were resting comfortably on the flat of their arches before the well known portals and vent the whimsical uncertainty of early fall weather couldn't dissuade them from their vigil.

Wasn't the first game of the double header scheduled for 1:30? Wasn't this at least 10:15? The average baseball fan was born optimistic and later became more cheerful by degrees. Some of them even conceded grudingly, somewhat after the manner of the average man conceding his personal charm, that the Giants were going to win three straight from the Cardinals, starting today and ending on Saturday. There will be no activities scheduled for tomorrow unless today's program is rained out.

That three-straight thing happened to be less of a miracle and more of an absolute necessity to the Giants insofar as their pennant chances were concerning this morning. For, if they took only two of the three games, the Cards would go away from here with a one-game lead and only eight more to play. They then would be faced with the elementary problem of winning only five of those eight in order to force the Giants to finish with seven out of eight to take the pennant.

Cards Favored.

Considering the fact that St. Louis will play three of these games with the Braves, from whom they already have won fifteen out of nineteen and four with the Dodgers, to whom they have lost only eight out of eighteen, the magnitude of the situation confronting the Giants is apparent. It isn't wholly apparent, either, until one knows that the Giants' subsequent opponents will be the Cubs and Reds, this pair having beaten McGraw entry nineteen times in thirty-seven games this year.

The only game after this series that won't be any tougher for the Giants, in fact, or quite as easy for the Cardinals, is the season's finale September 30 between the arch-contenders. In the light of subsequent developments, this single game may mean nothing—or everything.

However, neither McGraw nor McKechnie gave it a passing thought today. They were trying to juggle their forces to the ultimate embarrassment of the other and, in this respect, McKechnie got the newspaper decision. He was able to pitch Jess Haines out of turn the other day, thus reserving his left handers, Sherdel and Mitchell, for a club that fares none to prosperously against this school of pitching technique.

Alexander To Pitch.

Sherdel will pitch one of the games today; Alexander probably will go in the other, although young Frankhouse might get the nod at the last moment. Alex may sit all the other clubs down in order but he has been no riot against the Giants, this year or any other. In fact, Cardinal pitching has been taken for a ride by the Giants all season, as witness their five successive victories over St. Louis, three of them coming at Sportsman's Park during the last western trip.

The only exception to this statement is Clarence Mitchell who can and does beat the Giants about ten times out of a possible nine or something. Mitchell will work the finale son Saturday, as insurance against a complete route in case the Giants win two this afternoon. His appearance, like that of Sherdel, will mean McGraw's much discussed outfield shift and according to many, a weakened defense however. Ott and O'Doul have proved they can't hit left handers so the shift is the only out McGraw has.

Joe Geenewich had been nominated to give the Cubs a whirl yesterday and, therefore is the likely nominee against Sherdel in the first game. Larry Benton, will go after the second game, with Fred Fitzsimmons, pitching the game of his life at the moment, ready for Saturday.

Resident opinion on the series is strongly impressed with the five-straight angle in the records and regards this as a good bet that the Giants will rush through this one for three more. It may be that this will happen but the laws of "percentage" are all against it. In fact, it might appear that, if one club wins eleven out of eighteen from another of about equal ability, it is just possible the former is due for the rough dry process in at least one of the three games.

Rain Fails To Halt Gridders

New Castle High Football Team Stages Workout Wednesday In Rain

EXPECT MUDDY FIELD SATURDAY

Rain of that very disagreeable variety failed to halt the activities of the New Castle High school football squad yesterday at Ben Franklin field. A two-hour drill was indulged in by the fifty candidates.

Coach Philip H. Bridenbaugh took advantage of the wet slippery field to give the boys a little rehearsal in the matter of carrying a wet pigskin, and the players responded with a will. The rain was very welcome after the several scorching hot days of recent date, and it was more like football weather.

The weather man is here with an indefinite stay of rain judging from the dripping skies of Wednesday and again today and prospects of a wet field for the opening game with Bellevue on Saturday looms.

A tough scrimmage session was on the books this afternoon, with a slight signal drill on Friday. The team is already close to mid-season form, following their week at camp, and two weeks at Franklin field.

Trade School Gridders To Play New Wilmington

The New Castle Trade School football team for 1928 will open their season at New Wilmington on Saturday afternoon September 29, it was announced today by Coach Brown.

Coach Brown is a product of Allegheny College and will tutor the gridders this season. Brown was a football man at the Meadville school. A squad of over 60 have been working out daily at Franklin Field, but the number will be cut to 24 for the season. There are not many veterans available in the Trade School this year.

Faculty Manager James Lewis is hard at work in scheduling games with other Junior High teams in this section, and hopes to have the program completed very shortly.

Jess Zamoni is assisting Coach Brown with the work of training the squad. The workouts to date have consisted of running through signals and exercises to limber up the boys.

"Tex" Richards a veteran of last year is shaping up well this season and will likely win a halfback job. Coach Brown has not as yet selected his varsity but intends to use Boyd at fullback, Cover at quarterback and Richards and Proctor at the halfback posts.

Following is the squad that Coach Brown is working with this year: Cook, Cover, DiCarbo, Buiney, Dudek, Richards, Kolodjeski, Proctor, Henzel, Fletcher, Flynn, VanHorn, Dudek, Boyd, Getty, Majocha, Leonelli, Ciccone, Bender, Shook, Respolli, Tyrell, DiMuccio, and Mielke.

A. Kurdupski is the student manager of the team this year.

Leads Harriers

Byers King, Cooperstown lad, leads the Westminster cross country team this fall. Last year the United Presbyterians won the Tri-State Conference championship, but the loss of Orvil Mirtz of Pittsburgh and Wesley Rose of New Castle practically makes it impossible to repeat. Then, too, Robert Wallace of Coraopolis, another dependable runner, will not return to college. King, a junior, has been on cross country and track team at Westminster for three years.

Grid Tickets Are Selling Rapidly

The sale of season reserved tickets for the school game at Franklin field this year, is progressing nicely said Faculty Manager Ralph H. Gardner today. The tickets for the eight home games are selling for $7.50 this year.

For the past two years the tickets were sold for $10.00 and this season it was decided to reduce the price. A total of 850 tickets have been placed on sale and there has been a good response by the football public. Only one section the D Section is being reserved this year. The remainder of the concrete stand will be open to general admission at 50 cents each game, with the exception of the South High game on Thanksgiving, and this game will be $1.00 for general admission.

The opening game of the year on Saturday will bring Bellevue High to Franklin field. The game will start at 2:30 o'clock.

Penn State Squad Uses Flood Lights

Practice Will Be Carried On Long After Dark At Nittany Institution

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Sept. 20.—Wednesday was the first doy of school at the Pennsylvania State College, and it was also the first day of "school" for the some 80 husky gridders of the Nittany Lion football squad, for Wednesday evening, the first time this season, the entire squad prolonged their practice sessions far into the night under mammoth flood lights which have been erected on New Beaver field.

Full strength of the Lion football squad will now be able to practice at the same time, since the beginning of the sessions has been set back to five o'clock in the afternoon because of classes. After dusk creeps down into Nittany Valley, almost an hour's work will be done under the glare of the flood lights.

Captain Don Greenshields, who has been in a local hospital for about ten days, was released Tuesday. He will be unable to get into uniform for some time, however.

A whispering campaign differs from a plain mud-slinging campaign to the advantage of the latter, which at least was out in the open.—The Springfield Sunday Republican.

Workmen Are Roofing Bowl

Davies And Peters Scheduled To Box Ten Rounds Monday Night

FOUR OTHER BOUTS HAVE BEEN BOOKED

Jolly bowl is being roofed for the winter boxing season and though operations today were suspended on account of rain it is believed that within a short time the big saucer will be enclosed and that when a heating system is installed it will be possible to stage basketball and other indoor sports as it is proposed to construct a floor inside the place.

Monday night Willie Davies, the most popular fighter who has appeared here yet, will tackle a real Indian, Ernie Peters, who has fought Emil Paluso and Luis Carpentero and many other high class battlers and the fans can feel that when Davies starts he will be given a good fight by Peters, who is termed a miniature "Jack Dempsey" of the flyweights.

Howard Mayberry meets Jackie Schwartz in the semi-final. Mickie Dugan battles Steve Gott and Joey Goodman will go against Eddie Smith. Tom O'Leary and Johnny Haggerty will return for a four-round bout, according to Bill Jolly, the promoter and matchmaker.

Evans Coaching At West Orange High

Hayden Evans, former New Castle high grid and basketball star and Grove City college graduate is coaching again this year at West Orange high, New Jersey. Evans has a squad of over 50 out for practice according to a West Orange news item.

Evans was a grid star at Grove City college after leaving New Castle high and has held down a fullback post. The West Orange high team last year captured the Class B, North Jersey championship and Coach Evans believes the prospects are bright this year for another winning combination.

West Orange opens the season on September 20 by clashing with the Alumni.

Twilight League Teams End Season With Banquet

Ryantown Is Presented With Pennant As Champions For 1928 Season

Judge James A. Chambers Is Speaker; Powers Acts As Toastmaster

Wednesday night was a big night for the 15 players of the Rayantown ball club. For Wednesday night they were feted, they were guests of the entire Lawrence County Twilight League, because they were the victors in this year's pennant race.

Wednesday night at the Elks' club, following a banquet in their honor, they were formally presented with the pennant by Eddie Connery, secretary of the league.

Fully 75 members of the league were guests at the banquet which was presided over by Attorney John Powers, a prominent Lawrence county baseball fan and an old ball player himself. And on the speaking program there were Judge James A. Chambers, commissioner of the league, William G. Andrews, president of the league, Alec Samuels, its vice president, and Charles P. Walther, a commissioner of the league and assistant sports editor of The News.

With a few remarks, Mr. Walther, who also was chairman of a committee to arrange the banquet, presented the toastmaster of the evening, who, in turn, introduced Bob Robertson, manager of the Wampum team, the runners up in this year's race. Mr. Robertson congratulated the Ryantown team on the splendid showing they made this year, and expressed himself as confident that next year Wampum would be in the position of honor at the end of the season.

Elmer Robinson, manager of the victorious Ryantown nine, next spoke, returning Mr. Robertson's thanks, and stating that the success of his team depended entirely on the work of the players. He further stated that he was proud to be the manager of such an aggregation of clean ball players.

"I have never been partial to any team or player in the league," declared William G. Andrews, president of the league who was the next speaker. "The season has not been exactly successful. We have met with some reverses.

"Next year, I hope that we shall start the season with a six or eight team league, with the best talent in the county playing. Then I am sure that we can all stick together and make a success of the season."

Mr. Andrews also declared that the growing popularity of golf was sounding the death knell of base ball, but that he hoped that next year they would start the season early, so as not to let base ball get away from the county.

Eddie Connery then presented the pennant to the Ryantown club, after which Manager Robinson accepted and all of the Ryantown players were introduced to the audience. Short speeches were also made by Nick Navarre of Hillsville, "Jada" Hofmeister of Edenburg, Andy Mehalic of the Slovak A. C., Tom Newman of Ellwood City and Alex Black of Edenburg.

Charles "Bugs" Walther, commissioner in the league next gave a short talk on co-operation within the league and expressed the hope that next year a better system of arbitration could be devised.

Musings of the early days when he played on the third team at East Brook took up the first half of Judge James A. Chambers' address, the last on the program. He told how he walked from East Brook to New Castle to play the Croton team, and how the Croton team would walk from New Castle to East Brook to play them. Then, he told of the beginnings of the Lawrence County Twilight league.

"There is no better or cleaner sport than base ball," he concluded. "It develops quickness, accuracy and a certain ability to use one's head. The training is useful for it lays the foundation for good sportsmanship which is invaluable in days to come.

"I am glad to see you all meet here in the spirit of good fellowship. There is no jealousy. And may I congratulate Ryantown, the winner of this year's pennant.

Harry Ellwell, a black face comedian, entertained immediately after the banquet. Throughout the evening a local orchestra furnished music. Arrangements for the banquet were in charge of Charles "Bugs" Walther, Eddie Connery, Elmer Robinson and Alec Samuels.

Slapping at mosquitoes and missing four times out of five, we are ready to criticize Noah for not putting screens on the Ark.—The Toledo Blade.

Another Victim Of Whisperers By Feg Murray

The fact that the Pittsburgh Pirates are still mathematically in the race for the National League pennant, although probably each and every one connected with the team, from Barney Dreyfuss down to the water boy, knows that the chances of getting into the October classic are slimmer than the elongated form of Bryan Harriss, keeps the spotlight on a husky shortstop from Missouri whose case has been called a parallel one to that of Kiki Cuyler last year.

For Forest Glenn Wright, called a "Second Hans Wagner" not so long ago, has been the subject of many a mean rumor this season and the fact that up to September 8th he had played in only 90 of his team's 134 games was explained with many a lifting of the eyebrows and whisperings. Both Donnie Bush and Dreyfuss have put the quietus to stories that Wright is to be traded to another team, but the fans still insist that Glenn is to get the air. Bartell played well in the infield with Wright out, as did Sparky Adams, shifting from second to short, and a very successful winning streak was conducted without the big shortstop.

Glenn took his regular position on September 8th, and, in three successive games, contributed materially to his team's victories with a run and two hits in each contest.

The Spotring News of July 26th said under a heading "Time for Wright to Behave"; "Last year Glenn was inclined to pursue the pathways of pleasure rather than the rough road of business . . . This spring there were reports that he had started in where he left off last fall."

Maybe a lot of National League pitchers will find out, in the next two weeks, that there's "nothing wrong with Wright."

Geography books are all wet. Now that the two Americas are matched for the polo supremacy of the world, it will be the referee, not the Isthmus of Panama that will separate them. Argentine, so we read, is a republic, but some one from there is going to get crowned on Long Island on September 22.

Yanks-Athletics Fight For Flag

Yanks Meet Chicago White Sox Today And Athletics Clash With Detroit

ALL GAMES WASHED OUT WEDNESDAY

By LES CONKLIN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—While thousands of fans stormed the Polo Grounds today to watch the Giants hook up with the Cardinals, legions of other partisans who can't "see" the McGrawmen with a telescope busied themselves in figuring out the pennant chances of their favorites, the Yankees.

The Yanks begin a series with the White Sox in Chicago today while the Athletics are invading Detroit. The New Yorkers are in front by two games. If they win six of their eleven remaining contests, giving them an even hundred victories for the season, the Mackmen must win eight out of ten to better the mark.

The Hugmen are confident of capturing eight out of eleven. In that event the A's would be forced to take ten straight to grab the flag.

Zachary or Pipgras will hurl against the Sox today, with Adkins, a Yankee nemesis, or Red Faber as the opposing hurler. Earnshaw is slated to hurl for the Athletics and Whitehill for Detroit.

For the second time this season, no major league games were played yesterday. The postponed game between the Giants and the Cubs will be played when the Bruins visit New York next week.

Buccaneer Grid Team In Field

The Buccaneer grid team is being reorganized for the coming season. The Buccaneers have been in the field for the past four years and have given the junior teams of the city plenty of competition.

In their four years on the local gridirons the Buccaneers have won 43 games and tied 2. The team this year will have the same players as last season with the exception of three positions. The team will stage a workout tonight at 6 o'clock at the Bartram avenue field.

Bren Hanlon former New Castle High star has been secured to coach the Buccaneers this season. All candidates for the team are asked to be present at the practice field at the appointed hour.

Gardner Hits Razz At Football Games

Faculty Manager Brands Such Conduct As "Unsportsmanlike"

Because a certain High school team which played at New Castle last year for the first time hesitated about accepting a date to play here on account of the reports to the effect that certain of the New Castle fans had congregated near the visitors' playing bench and heaped unsportsmanlike language on the players of the visiting team, Ralph Gardner, faculty manager of athletics, issues the following statement on sportsmanship:

"Real sportsmanship is a tremendous advertisement for good to any city. It is best shown (1) by treating visiting players, coaches and their adherents with every consideration of courtesy and kindness; (2) by applauding good plays by players of visiting teams; (3) by applauding a visiting player when he is removed from the game by injury or for other cause (this is an especially noticeable and high form of sportsmanship); (4) by refraining from any form of audible disapproval of the decisions of the officials."

Gardner said that he would greatly appreciate it if the fans would cooperate not only personally, but thru their influence over others to make New Castle notable in western Pennsylvania as the city of true sportsmanship.

BABE SACRIFICES HOME RUN CHANCE

No wonder Babe Ruth looks sad. You would, too, if you had given up a great chance to set a new record in home runs. That's what the big Bam has done. In order that the Yanks might win necessary games Ruth has forgotten his home run hopes and has been going after base hits that count and not four-bag bingles that don't. More power to him! He's proven a king of good sports.

GORDON COCHRANE

Gordon Cochrane, an important factor in the Athletics' winning drive, has earned himself the title of the American League's best backstop.

Mickey Cochrane is a product of Boston College and has been playing professional ball only since 1924. The A's got him from Portland Pacific Coast League for $50,000. Almost immediately upon his arrival in Philadelphia Cochrane became first string catcher.

Much of the success pitchers is attributed to Mickey's fine work behind the bat.

TIGERS GRAB THIS 18-YEAR-OLD

Joseph Samuels, 18-year-old pitching star of the Scranton, Pa., Miners, of New York-Pennsylvania league, who pitched such good ball that he was sold to the Detroit Tigers for use this season at a price said to have been "substantial." Samuels' record was one of the best in the league despite the fact that the Miners finished the season next to last. This was his first season in organized baseball.

ASK THE MAN WHO OWNS ONE

SPORTS DONE BROWN

By NORMAN E. BROWN
Sports Writer for Central Press and New Castle News

This is the season of the year when the major league clubs, outside of the pennant contenders and near contenders, call in a bevy of young hopefuls from the minors to give them the first once over. Those showing fair promise will be back again next spring for a more thorough test in the south and possibly a trial at the start of the season. The others will be cast adrift entirely or sent back for more seasoning.

Discussing this annual pilgrimage of hopefuls to the big show a veteran minor league manager recently related some very interesting axioms regarding these youngsters and their chances for delivering in the top row.

"If a pitcher has a good fast ball he can make good in the majors," he said. "He can be taught to hook 'em and change his pace. But if he hasn't a hop on his fast one he can't pick it up.

"And by the same token, if a batter can hit the fast ones he can learn to pick out the hooks. If he can't nail the fast ones he's going to have a hard time when he moves up where most of the pitchers have a good fast ball."

These were two of them.

"However," he added, "many a good young ball player has been ruined by the majors I believe, in their desire to change over night whatever pitching or batting style he brings up with him.

"Surely, if a youngster in the minors can hit around .350 there can't be anything radically wrong with his style—the style that carried him into the limelight as a minor leaguer. Nine times out of 10 he'll have one or two faults, the elimination of which may make him a better hitter. But these faults can be corrected in due time."

The minor league sage continued: "If a pitcher goes up to the majors with a side-arm delivery that has made him a winner in the minors, why is it necessary for some board of strategy to decide over night that he ought to throw the ball overhand? A change in his stride or windup can be effected in short order with little danger. The average pitcher is intelligent enough to acquire these changes on suggestion. But a new delivery may ruin his arm and, if not his arm, his control.

"I believe that Vic Keen, who was headed for a brilliant career with the Chicago Cubs a couple of years ago, was ruined in this way," he added.

"The moment Keen showed promise someone decided he ought to change his pitching style and copy Grover Alexander's delivery. The new delivery was unnatural for him. His efforts to change his style ruined him."

Keen has been pitching for Rochester in the International league this season but has not had a good year.

STATE GRIDDERS TO PRACTICE TONIGHT

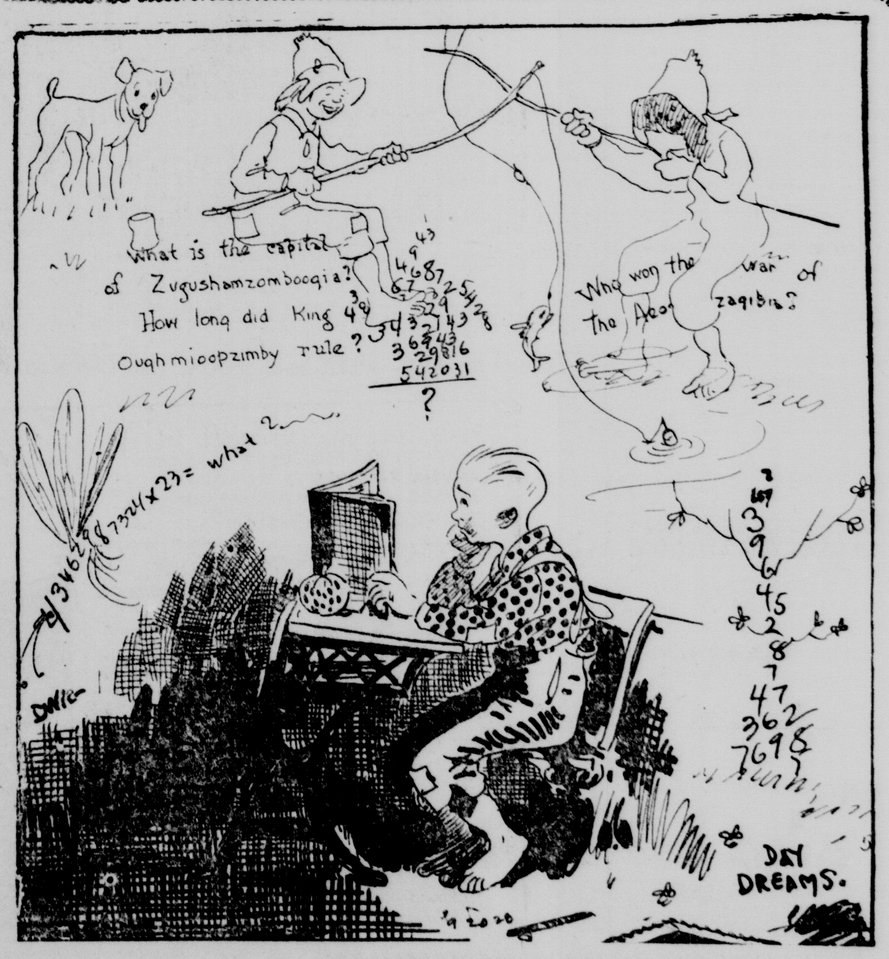

Penn State football team has organized for the season. Tonight they will hold a workout in preparation for the game at the Ben Franklin field at 6:00 o'clock sharp.

With four veterans from last year's New Castle High team, the Penn State team this year promises to give their opponents plenty in the way of opposition. The former Red and Black gridders are: Mike Kulich, end; Harold Harris, end; Glen Thomas, center, and George Mike, guard.

Jack Reider requests that the following players report for the workout tonight: Mele, Kulich, Rogers, Harris, G. Thomas, A. Thomas, Merriman, L. Lewis, John Lewis, Jim Lewis, Kula, Mike, Eardley, Rowe, Porter, Taylor, Johns, Gibson, and Vanfasson.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—A strong demand for the motor stocks, the utilities and a number of the specialties in the early trading today had the natural effect of stiffening quotations for the market favorites. General Motors duplicated its record high price of 211 on buying attributed to the Managers' Corporation, and several of the low-priced motor and motor accessory stocks resumed the advance which was interrupted by yesterday's closing reaction.

The call loan rate dropped to 7½ per cent. as the result of an influx of funds to the Wall Street district from the out of town banks and corporations. Business and industrial reports were generally favorable.

Stocks of the power and light companies indulged in a moderate forward movement which carried up prices of electric power and light, National Power and Light, Consolidated Gas, Brooklyn Union Gas, etc. The airplane stocks were well bought at higher prices, Curtiss soaring to above 161.

Few Of Victims Are Identified

Hurricane Victim Identification In Florida Proceeds Slowly

BATTLE AGAINST FEARED EPIDEMIC

By DON MORRIS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., Sept. 20.—With an unofficial death list nearing 1,000 persons and the local chapter of the Red Cross unable to give an accurate number of casualties, South Florida today began slowly recovering from the effects of the hurricane disaster.

The Red Cross has been unable to set new figures on the death list because of lack of complete reports from the Everglades. Officials however, believe the estimate of 1,000 dead is exaggerated, but admit their estimate of yesterday—400 dead—was too low.

Accurate lists of the names of the dead are also unavailable. Only a very small percentage of the bodies have been identified. No efforts are being made to indentify the negro dead.

Disease is likely to sweep the Everglades unless thorough precautions are taken, officials say. An almost certain epidemic of typhoid is expected to result from sanitary conditions, Red Cross workers say innoculation is imperative.

Meantime, residents not employed in relief work are digging their way out of the havoc wrought by the blow. Trucks and dredges are working on the streets, removing the debris.

Aid from the outside world is arriving on all incoming trains. All sorts of supplies, such as food, clothing, building material are arriving steadily.

Pinchot-Truman In Disagreement On Doe Killings

Secretary Of State Game Board Does Not Entirely Agree With Pinchot

TRUMAN ANSWERS PROTEST LETTER

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Sept. 20.—John B. Truman, executive secretary of the board of game commissioners, in a reply to former Governor Gifford Pinchot's protest against a doe season in Northeastern counties today failed to agree with many of the contentions made by the latter.

Pinchot in a personal protest to Governor John S. Fisher, and later in an open letter addressed to the commission asked that the counties in Northeastern Pennsylvania be closed to doe season which has been set for December 1 to 15.

Truman asserted in his letter that conditions in those counties today compare with those which existed in the central section of the state a few years ago. He mentioned Centre county as an example where two years ago it was believed enough food existed for the deer to last 100 years. Increase of the deer resulted in the death of many of them because of starvation.

Pinchot in his letter to Truman characterized the action of the commission as an effort to make residents of some counties "wear rubbers to keep another man's feet dry." To which truman replied that the commission is trying to "prevent conditions which will, figuratively, make all the sportsmen wear hip boots."

Bank President Is Being Hunted, Huge Amount Embezzled

President Of Beemer, Nebraska, State Bank Accused Of Stealing $67,000

(International News Service)

BEEMER, Neb., Sept. 20.—A half dozen states are being combed today for trace of Paul Wupper, president of the Beemer State bank, charged with the embezzlement of nearly $67,000.

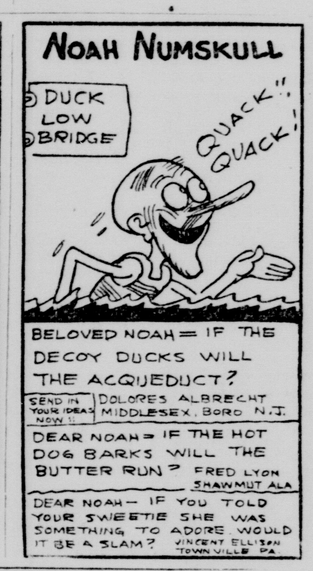

The search has already reached as far East as Illinois and Wisconsin, for Beemer's former mayor and custodian of the bank's $800,000 assets. County officials believed Wupper to have gone to Milwaukee or Chicago in quest of money to cover the deficits showed in the recent bank examination.

Two smaller banks in McClean and Morse Bluff, holder of notes on the Beemer bank, were forced to close their doors today because of the irregularities.

Just Among Us Girls

Smith Refuses To Speak From Train Platform

Governor Smith Very Determined Man And Will Not Change His Schedule

LEADERS BELIEVE "AL" WILL WEAKEN

(International News Service)

ENROUTE WITH GOVERNOR SMITH TRAIN, Sept. 20.—Governor Alfred E. Smith, is a very determined man—once he makes up his mind.

He announced at the start of his Western invasion that not under any circumstances would he make any speeches from the rear end of his train. He has a voice that won't stand any undue straining. "No back-platform stuff" he said. Veterans of many campaigns, smiled to themselves and, knowing Governor Smith's weakness for crowds, offered odds that he would not and could not carry out his determination.

The Democratic nominee has been on the road four days and travelled approximately 2,000 miles, meeting thousands of people. He has yet to make anything even approaching a speech from the rear-platform of his train. There have been opportunities galore and urging no end. But the Governor is adamant. He has strained his back in a dozen different postures, shaking upstretched hands, but no speeches.

Wears Brown Derby

"Al" shakes hands of scores of persons with a guttural "glad to see you" but that's all. So it was all of yesterday through the towns and hamlets of Nebraska and Kansas—Fairbury, Belleville, Clay Center, Manhattan, Topeka, McFarland, Herington.

They told him a few weeks ago in Albany to leave his famous brown derby behind when he started West.

They said the West wouldn't understand the brown derby, that they weren't being worn in Kansas, Oklahoma and the other states he will visit on his two weeks' tour. Above all things, they said, leave the brown derby behind. Why? Asked the Governor. "I wear it here, why not there? I'm going to be myself."

He has worn the brown derby in every public appearance he has made since leaving Albany. Not once has he appeared in any other headgear.

This is "Al" Smith's campaign. It is being conducted according to his own ideas, at least insofar as he personally is concerned.

School Principal Faces Charges Of Injuring Student

Parents Of Young Girl In School Near Johnstown File Assault Charges

(International News Service)

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Sept. 20.—Accused of inflicting severe wounds bruises on Ruth Thomas, 13-year-old pupil, with a wooden paddle and dragging her over the floor, Luther P. Claycomb, 35, principal of Elm school, Upper Yoder township, was free today on $300 bail to await court trial on charges of assault and battery on a minor.

Seven pupils testified against Claycomb at a hearing before Alderman Wakefield Stuffey and the Thomas girl exhibited bruises which she said were the result of the alleged beating suffered a week ago.

According to the pupils' testimony, Frances Thomas, a younger sister of Ruth, was ushered to her seat by the principal for smiling after making a mistake at the blackboard. Ruth said she took exception to this, and the principal struck her on the back and legs with a paddle and dragged her to the door when she refused to leave.

Claycomb did not testify at the hearing, charges being preferred by Ruth's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Thomas.

Taking Bids For New Church Here

Site For New First U. P. Church Building Has Been Secured

Through an order made this week the Lawrence county court has authorized the Lawrence Savings & Trust company, the recently appointed legal guardian of Mrs. Fidelia W. D. Falls of Cleveland, who is the owner of the tract of land situated in the southwest corner of the intersection of Clenmore boulevard and Albert street, to sell the said property, running 160 feet along Albert street and 380 feet along Clenmore boulevard, to the First U. P. church of this city. The congregation proposes to erect a new edifice on this site to replace their fire-ruined North Jefferson street structure.

Today is the last opportunity to make bids on the new church building, according to the W. G. Eckles company, architects for the structure. A meeting of the building committee of the congregation may be held tonight to consider these and if an agreement is reached, an announcement concerning the action taken may be given out tomorrow.

New Castle Breaks Record With Simbo

Three Thousand School Children Attend Matinee Of Jungle Film

All United States records for gross business at a three day showing of a motion picture were broken with the presentation of 'Simba" in New Castle Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of this week, declares Herbert Peairs, manager of the Scottish Rite Cathedral where the picture was shown.

Wednesday afternoon the school children of New Castle, 3,000 in number attended the show at a special reduced rate. This also sets a record for school children's matinees in the United States.

Then, New Castle is a city in which many records are broken. Last season both 'My Maryland" and "Hit the Deck" made records in New Castle for one night stands.

Children Cause Small Attic Fire

Damage Amounting To $50 Is Done To Building In Cochran Way

Children playing with matches in an attic was the cause of a fire which did damage amounting to $50 at the residence of Andrew Haggerty at 222 1-2 North Cochran way Wednesday afternoon.

In the attic of the building there was a large quantity of paper. The Hagerty children playing in the attic accidentally set this on fire. Companies one and two with the aerial truck responded to the alarm and within a short time had the blaze extinguished.

A million years of intellectual growth, resulting in a flapper who wonders if her nose is shiny.

Convention Saves New Castleite In Court At Lebanon

One New Castle man is happy and it was caused by the Hon. William H. Brunner, mayor of Lebanon, Pennsylvania, and the third class cities convention in this city.

It happened this way, according to the story which the mayor himself told in the lobby of The Castleton to the reporter. The mayor was holding the final court previous to his departure to New Castle for the convention.

Just before his departure, a copper came into the court room and hanging on his arm was a poor bewildered New Castleite who had jumped a traffic signal while passing through the town.

Now the fine is $10 for this offense, no exceptions made to cities or relatives. The New Castle man had jumped the gun on the light and he was just due to lose ten dollars and no argument about it.

"You are a stranger in town, eh?" questioned hizzoner the mayor. "Where are you from?"

"New Castle," stated the offender.

"New Castle," said the mayor, "why I'm just going there to a convention. I'm in a hurry to get there too. I can't fine a man who lives in a town where they are going to entertain me for two days scot free; at least not just before I'm going. You're discharged!"

A smile from ear to ear spread across the New Castleite's face as he left the court room. He had made ten dollars and heard from his home town.

Mayor Brunner did not remember the man's name.

MAKING MEN

The scores of boys' clubs, educational classes, gymnasium classes, Bible classes, discussion groups—the manifold activity radiating into every part of every great city—which make the astonishing program of the Y. M. C. A. must appeal to every citizen. The dreariest pessimist, believing the present generation is a total loss, can not deny the decency of the effort to make the next generation better. Service aimed at and for youth comes very near to being the most worthwhile effort in the world.

UNSELFISH?

The alleged unselfishness of many people is a beautiful idea built up in their own bright minds. They have acquired an unselfish manner. They appear to be doing, or be on the verge of doing, all sorts of nice, thoughtful things for others. The things they finally do, with whatever sweet gesture, are usually the things that fit in with their own plans. The discarded garment with which we seek to gladden the heart of a poor relation is, of course, the garment we are tired of and never want to see again. And so on.

If you are interested in discovering what is and what is not selfishness, you will be instructed and entertained by a delightfully ironic book by Anne Parrish called "All Kneeling".

ADJUSTMENT

Israel Newman writes: "Truths are metallic strings across the scheme of things; and life—the wind that strikes and wails—or sings."

Well, that is a beautiful suggestion of the possibility of adjustment in life to circumstance. The facts are here. Life—the manner in which we live it—may bring music or discord as it meets the facts.

What are you doing about the facts in your life?

PREPARATION

About 150 years ago there came the "dark day". A remarkable eclipse of the sun startled the people of New England. The legislature in Connecticut was in session. Many believed the Day of Judgment was at hand. A member moved adjournment. And then arose an old Puritan, Davenport Stanford, who declared that if this were the last day of the world he desired to be found at his post of duty. He opposed adjournment.

Why worry about preparation for death? The old Puritan was right. Have a job you are not ashamed of, and then be found on the job.

Post Cards From Europe

by William Ivy

PARIS, Sept. 4.—M. Paul Painleve, minister of war, in a recent address to his constituents on the Briand-Kellogg pact, expressed the hope that besides placing war outside the law, the nations of the world would also put it out of the dictionary.

"I hope," said M. Painleve, "that I shall some day be known, not as minister of war, but as minister of peace." (Thus unconsciously plagiarizing a probably long forgotten idea of Elbert Hubbard.)

When you think of it, it does seem anachronistic— particularly in the face of the modern peace movement—for nations to go on having "war" departments. Some countries, indeed, notably Norway, have abolished the term. The combined military and naval administration in Norway is called the "ministry of defense."

Mr. Painleve's suggestion, however, has not been very enthusiastically received in France, particularly by the conservative press. The French are not yet persuaded that the Kellogg scheme—although adapted from a proposal of M. Briand—means the end of war, and they don't see that it will help matters any to change the name of the war department to "peace department." Furthermore they pointed out that M. Aristide Briand thinks his department—the foreign office— is the real peace department.

The French are not very fond of verbal niceties in such matters, anyway.

"If we wanted to go on with this game of paradoxes," one conservative commentator remarks, "we should have to change the old Latin proverb to: 'Si vis bellum, para pacem.'" ("If you want war, prepare for peace.")

And, he adds, the proverb is just as the reversed form; there is no surer way to promote war than to indulge in too much pacifist propaganda.

Chicago Chatter

BY IONE QUINBY

Exclusive Central Press Dispatch to New Castle News

CHICAGO, Sept. 4.—You can't tell whether a hotel is doing business or not in Chicago this year, for as soon as the nine o'clock gong strikes the hotel "lamp" lighter goes around lighting up every other empty room. One downtown hotel had two floors empty not long ago, but no one would have surmised it because they were lighted up just the same as when business was good. (Moral: Keep the lights going so the cock-eyed world won't know how dark things are!)

There's more truth than fiction in bluffing it out. Bell Livingstone, belonging to the great Matrimonial Trinity—of which Ganna Walska and Peggy Joyce are members—is a good example. Belle blew into Chicago her old home town, recenty, with four scrapped husbands, two children and a varied career to her credit since she was here last. She has been the toast of two continents, the owner of one of the most celebrated chateaus in France, a Broadway star (long before she turned 50), and mistress of millions in the interim, but she came back broke. Did she weep over the shoulders of her old Chicago friends? She did not. She dressed up in her Parisian frocks, invited the home towners to call and regaled them with her memories of a joyous life. And they're ready to give her the town now because she made them laugh instead of weep.

Belle has the faculty that makes for the only real happiness in a city of four million. She knows how to talk everybody's language! It doesn't make any difference whether it's the bell hop at the Palmer House who brings messages to her suite, the white-haired financier on LaSalle street, the boys who tell bedtime stories to their youngsters now, but used to dance in her home between battles in 1918, the down and outer, or the members of the upper crust—she clicks with them all. There are thousands who speak fluently in Italian, German, French and Russian, but few who speak every man's language. More people lose heart in a big city because they have no one to speak to understandingly than for any one reason.

The world does change. One day not long ago Norma Talmadge came to town and got off at the Englewood station in order—so she said afterward—to avoid the limelight. And then, of course, there are Hoover, Lindbergh and Tunney, who haven't appeared overly keen to get personal publicity. Lunching the other day with two or three of the fourth estate, we got to talking about the old-fashioned celebrity who used to wear his name on his hatband like Boswell, or carried an identifying flower in his hand like Wilde did for a time, or had an assistant to point an admiring index finger at the "master" as Ibsen did. But, of course, that was before celebrities left everything to press agents!

Sentiment is still rampant in Chicago, where most persons suppose business is conducted on a cold business basis only. In Marshall Field's store, where almost everything under the sun may be purchased, it is impossible to buy a package of cigarettes, because the late John G. Shedd, one of the heads of the store, disapproved of women smoking.

Results Were So Amazing Almost Doubted Facts!

New Castle Couple Vastly Benefited By Ten Herbs, Husband States.

"I never had any faith in medicines until my wife started using Ten Herbs, and then the results were so amazing that I could hardly believe the facts," was the recent statement of Mr. Benjamin F. Kennedy, 2215

MR. BENJAMIN F. KENNEDY

Hartman Street, New Castle, to the Ten Herbs Man, who is at Eckerd's of New Castle, Inc., 30 East Washington Street, this city, where he is daily demonstrating this great natural medicine to crowds of men and women.

Finally my wife persuaded me to try your medicine, and I am glad that she did, as my work is heavy and I was not feeling very well," continued Mr. Kennedy, who is an iron-worker. "My digestion was gradually becoming weaker, and I would bring home the dinner pail almost as full as when I took it to work. I became so nervous that a good night's sleep was a rare thing. Then I began to feel worn-out.

"After using the first bottle of Ten Herbs, my appetite returned so that I was glad to empty my dinner pail. My digestion was improved. Now, when the shades of night fall, I am glad to get to bed, as I have sound, restful sleep. I really feel better in every way, and shall continue using your medicine until my whole system is built up. I am glad to recommend Ten Herbs as a health-restorer and invigorator."

That hundreds throughout this section are being helped back to better health is shown by the reports that daily are reaching the Ten Herbs Man. Many are telling how this new herbal compound relieved them of such ailing conditions as indigestion, gas, bloating, biliousness, dizziness, headaches, nervousness, constipation, pains and aches in the back, rheumatism, neuritis and weak, run-down feeling.

The Ten Herbs Man is at Eckerd's of New Castle, Inc., 30 East Washington Street, this city, where he is daily meeting the public and explaining the merits of this medicine.

Leaving here yesterday morning Dr. S. G. Hart started on the first lap of his trip to the mission field in India. Dr. Hart is enroute to New York by automobile with his son Dr. Hugh Hart, M. D. and will leave there on September 6.

Another missionary who has been spending his furlough in New Wilmington and who will sail on the same boat with Dr. Hart is Rev. R. Maxwell who also left the college town yesterday for New York City.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Robinson and their son Paul and their daughter Pauline are at present touring the east by automobile. On this vacation trip they expect to touch Washington, Philadelphia, New York, Harrisburg and Gettysburg.

Ellwood Schools Open Wednesday

Increase In Enrollment Is Seen For Local Public Schools

ELLWOOD CITY, Sept. 4.—Many youngsters are madly taking advantage of their last day of vacation today, scooting joyously along on their roller skates, fearfully anticipating the fact that tomorrow they must go back to school books and 9:30 bedtime hours.

The local schools have their enrollments up to date and a large increase of pupils is noticed. A new feature starting this year is the mothers training course for foreign mothers, taught by Mrs. Joe Young. This course has been largely made possible through the interest of the Women's club of this city who donated a sum of money toward a salary for the teacher of this class.

In the junior and senior high school the first day's work will be mainly selecting the courses and getting started in the various rooms, assignment of books, etc.

Governor Smith Plans To Speak In Pennsylvania

Friends Believe Governor Has Chance In Keystone State

By RAYMOND I. BORST
International News Service Staff Correspondent

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 4.—While it may seem almost incredible to Republican leaders, Gov. Al Smith has high hope of carrying Pennsylvania in the coming presidential election, his close friends revealed today.

So confident is the Democratic nominee that he has at least an even chance of winning Pennsylvania's 38 electoral votes that he is planning to deliver two and possibly three of the major speeches of his campaign in that state.

Shuns California.

Unless he changes his mind at the last minute, the governor will not include California in his campaign itinerary, although he is being strongly urged to go to the Pacific Coast by National Chairman John J. Raskob. Smith is said to have decided to leave Albany a week from Sunday on his first trip into the west, but it is not expected his itinerary will be announced for several days. It is barely possible that he may make his first major campaign speech in Omaha on Tuesday, September 18.

The governor will meet with members of his cabinet this week so that he can get the state's business in shape for the campaign. He also plans to get the executive budget under way before he begins his tour.

The nominee spent a quiet weekend and holiday at the executive mansion with William F. Kenny, millionaire New York contractor as his only guest. In between the showers he took a couple of short automobile rides.

Reward Offered For Arrest Of Dapper Slayers

Father Of Murdered Carrick Doctor Announces $1,000 Reward For Word Of Slayers

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 4.—Henry A. Dapper, father of the murdered Carrick physician, Dr. Harry R. Dapper, slain while on a fake sick call two weeks ago, has offered a $1,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of his son's murderer, it was announced by county detectives today.

This makes the total reward equal $1,250, the $250 was recently offered by the Pittsburgh Motor club.

Authorities still were apparently up against a blank wall in their search for Dr. Dapper's killer.

Valuable Papers In Connection With Slaying Are Reported Gone

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—Mystery surrounding the death of William L. D'Olier, Queens contractor found shot to death early Sunday, was heightened today as investigators started a search for a sheaf of documents held by D'Olier and relating to the $16,000,000 Queens sewer scandal.

Miss H. Johnson Tells How Cuticura Healed Pimples

I could not sleep at night. The trouble lasted seven months.

"My mother advised me to try Cuticura Soap and Ointment so I purchased some, and after using two cakes of Cuticura Soap and three boxes of Cuticura Ointment I was healed." (Signed) Miss Helen Johnson, 2416 N. Alder St., Phila., Pa., Jan. 17, 1928.

Unidentified Man Burns To Death As Truck Takes Fire

Man Riding On Truck, Wrecked On Steep Hill, Is Burned To Death

(International News Service)

KANE, Pa., Sept. 8.—State highway patrolmen today attempted to identify the body of a man burned to death when an Ohio moving van turned over on Denton Hill near Coudersport during the night.

The man who was riding in the truck, was pinned in the driver's cab when the truck turned over after the brakes burned out while descending the hill. The driver and helper on the truck leaped to safety.

The victim's foot became caught in the cab and the others were unable to free him after the gasoline tank exploded and turned the van into a flaming funeral pyre. The man was about 25, six feet tall and slender.

AMERICAN WIFE OF FORMER MAHARAJAH REPORTED TO BE ILL

at the castle were fruitless. One report was that the ex-Maharajah had left for Paris, but whether he was accompanied by his bride was not known.

The ranee was described as being "pale and listless' and taking little interest in things around her. Friends of the Indian Prince, however, declared that reports of illness were untrue. They admitted that the Indian princess was exhausted by the long journey from India to France but that, since their arrival in France and Switzerland she had regained her normal health.

Friends of the former Maharajah said he was not worrying over the suit brought against him at Bombay by a Hindoo woman who claimed she and her daughter were imprisoned when they refused to become his mistresses. The mother is suing for damages for false imprisonment and misappropriation of property, chiefly jewels.

NEW CASTLE PLANE MAKES NOTABLE RECORD IN RACE

fliers from New Castle made a mistake that cost them five minutes of their 30-minute rest period. Instead of landing as soon as possible, they circled the field several times to give their friends a chance to see the plane in flight. At 11:08 they came down.

As Pilot Merritt and his two passengers, Roy Bradford, president of the New Castle Aircraft Corporation, and Monroe Epstein, Pittsburgh millionaire, stepped from the cabin they were given a warm reception by the New Castle delegation.

Flying Conditions Bad

Merritt told the International News Service: "Flying conditions were rotten and we had to fly blind most of the way."

"I tried to drop down to a low altitude," he said, "but there was too much fog, so we took the ship up to the 5,000-foot level and found our way to the field solely by instrument flying. Most of the time we couldn't see anything but fog.

"Flying over the mountains was hazardous. We couldn't even see the mountain tops most of the time, and had to trust to our instruments that we were high enough to avoid the peaks."

Leave for Columbus

While their friends crowded around them the fliers ate sandwiches and drank tea, then rested until 11:33, when they took off for Columbus, O., on the second leg. Flying conditions between here and Columbus were reported much better than on the first leg.

Among the deelgation on hand to greet the New Castle men were: Mrs. Roy Bradford, wife of Bradford; their two small children, Alice and David; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Bradford; his sister, Mrs. Ford Fulkerson, and his brother, J. W. Bradford. Epstein's brother, Malcolm, also was there.

Merritt wore flying togs, but the others were dressed in street clothes.

PATTERSON DECLARES HE WIL NOT RESIGN AS COUNTY CHAIRMAN

the presidency. The attitude of the majority of the Lawrence county Democratic committee is said to be that of Mr. Patterson and in his attitude in the present situation he has the support of many of the Democratic leaders here.

Intends to Fight.

Mr. Patterson does not intend to remain passive in the matter. If the state chairman, John R. Collins, wishes to press the matter then there will be a contest, with Patterson and his friends standing squarely upon their rights to name their own officers and to conduct the county committee affairs as they see fit.

Under the ruling of State Chairman Collins, County Auditor William J. Eroe, Jr., is named head of the Democratic party in this county. Actually, Patterson is the chairman and refuses to be removed or to resign.

Patterson's Statement.

His formal statement follows:

With reference to the attempt of Democratic State Chairman Collins to remove me as county chairman of the Democratic party, as stated in your issue of September 6th, our state chairman has no such authority.

The Democratic county chairman is elected by the Democratic county committeemen, and the state chairman has no authority either to remove him or to appoint another person in his stead.

I had received no communication of any kind regarding the matter from Mr. Collins, and the first intimation I had of his intention was through the columns of the press, and we regard this action of Mr. Collins as an attempt to introduce the "boss system" of Tammany Hall into local politics.

I am, therefore, sending the following telegram to Chairman Collins:

The people of Lawrence county are capable of selecting their own officers, and having been selected as county chairman of the Democratic party, I will not tolerate the application of Tammany Hall methods to Lawrence county politics, and shall, therefore, continue to act ac county chairman of the Democratic party .

Eroe Is In Dark.

County Auditor William J. Eroe, Jr., who was designated by Collins as the county chairman on the day the resignation of Patterson was asked, said today: "I know nothing of the action of Mr. Collins, save what I have read in the papers. I have received no word from him concerning it."

"I nominated Mr. Patterson for the position of county chairman, and if he intends to remain as county chairman I have no disposition to assist in overthrowing him, and of course would not act as county chairman while he remains at the helm."

PASTORS LEAVE NEXT TUESDAY FOR CONFERENCE will be held in the Kingsley Methodist church.

New Bishop

Bishop Herbert Welsh the newly appointed bishop of the Pittsburgh Area will preside. Bishop Welsh spent twelve years as a missionary bishop at Soul, Corea. He received his appointment as bishop of the Pittsburgh Area just recently.

It is believed that there will not be much change in the ministers of this city. The Croton Avenue M. E. church has been without a pastor since the death of Rev. T. W. English the latter part of June, and a permanent pastor will be named for the vacancy.

Local ministers who will attend the Conference include Dr. F. S. Neigh, Dr. H. C. Weaver, Dr. S. L. Maxwell, Rev. J. L. Stratton, Rev. J. L. Petrie, Rev. D. D. Sleppy and Dr. C. J. Baker.

TENNESSEE TOWN GIVEN HONOR BY HERBERT HOOVER

It marked the first free government on the American continent.

See Hoover Victory

Hoover continued to receive glowing reports of potential success. All visitors to his headquarters brought him bright reports. Nathan Frank, former Missouri congressman, was one who predicted Hoover was certain of victory.

Norman S. Dike, a New York supreme court justice, called at Republican headquarters and predicted another Hoover victory in New York state.

A victory in Maryland, another doubtful state, was predicted by a delegation, which visited Hoover.

There likewise was much activity in the women's division of Republican headquarters. Mrs. J. L. Hughes, National committeewoman from Washington predicted a Hoover victory.

Mrs. Frank N. Mann, of Huntington, W. Va., a former Democratic National committeewoman, visited headquarters and endorsed Hoover. She told of the formation of anti-Smith clubs in West Viriginia and predicted Hoover would carry that state.

The nominee remained at his desk this morning, working on the labor speech to be delivered at Newark, N. J., September 17. He hopes to get away for a few days' fishing next week to some point on Chesapeake Bay.

Several Fliers Forced Down

One Of Racers Wrecks Plane In Landing Near Washington

ANOTHER DOWN AT MARTINS FERRY

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Pa., Sept. 8.—Bewildered in the fog and running out of gas C. W. Holman, St. Paul, Minn., piloting a Laird biplane, attempted to make a landing on the A. B. Weaver farm, five miles southeast of Washington today and wrecked his plane so badly that it will be out of the race.

The machine turned over pinning Holman and his mechanic, Ralph Greer, in the machine, but neither was hurt. The machine struck the side of a hill while descending to level ground, knocked off the landing gear, smashed the propeller, shattered the rudder and damaged the left hand strut.

Holman winner of last year's race, left Greer in charge of the plane while he went to Bettis field in an automobile.

PUNXSUTAWNEY, Pa., Sept. 8.—A large monoplane, believed to have gotten off its course in the heavy fog, hovered over Punxsutawney from 7:30 until 9:30 o'clock this morning, before the fog lifted enough to permit the plane to resume its journey. Persons who saw the plane flying low over the city, said it bore the number "200".

Martins Ferry, O., Sept. 8.—One of the planes entered in the class B trans-continental air races, is thought to have been the one which made a forced landing at Brookside, near here, shortly before noon on the hop from McKeesport to Columbus. The ship was only slightly damaged.

It is thought the pilot lost his way in a dense fog.

This latter phase will be discussed by prominent men from different cities in Ohio who are well versed with the metropolitan plan. Proportional representation, effective in Cincinnati and Cleveland will also be discussed.

Local Bank Buys $109,000 Issue Of Mahoning Bonds

Proceeds Of Sale To Be Used In Erecting Hillsville Consolidated School

Total bond issue of $109,000 issued by Mahoning township for school purposes was sold last night to the People's Savings and Trust company of this city at a premium of $175.

The bonds bear 4 1-2 per cent interest, the issue being voted for the purpose of erecting a new consolidated school building in Mahoning township. The school board had hoped to get a larger premium but owing to the present condition of the money market there were few bidders.

Work on the erection of the new school building has already been started by Contractor McGregor. The excavating is under way and on next Monday workmen will start to drive piling. The piling is necessary owing to the fact that the building is to be located on ground from which the limestone has been taken and the earth filled in.

Contractor McGregor stated last night that he expected to be laying brick within two weeks.

The school board will meet again on Monday night according to County Superintendent J. C. Syling for the purpose of selecting the kind of brick to be used in the building.

Six Are Killed, Woman Is Dying And Eighth Victim Is In Critical State

(International News Service)

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Sept. 10.—Three women and three men are dead, another woman is dying and an eighth victim is in a critical condition as a result of two grade crossing accidents late yesterday.

One crash occurred in Milwaukee and the second near Kenosha. Three persons, returning from a fishing trip in northern Wisconsin, were killed when their car sped in front of a Milwaukee interurban train.

The Kenosha tragedy climaxed an evening of dancing enjoyed by two couples who were soon to have been married. Their automobile struck a Northwestern passenger train near the Kenosha city limits.

State Auto Sales Co. Will Open New Uptown Branch Show Room

The tremendous ovation that has greeted the new "Royal" 75 by Chandler and their new 6-65, has compelled the State Auto Sales Co., who are distributors for the Chandler and Franklin cars in this territory, to open a branch agency at 114 N. Mercer street for the greater convenience of the many enthusiasts who have been anxious to see the much heralded "greater" Chandler line and who have been compelled to trek their way downtown to South Mill street in order to see them.

The North Mercer street branch will hold its formal opening Tuesday evening from 7 to 9 and will be in charge of Charles C. Levine.

Mr. Levine promises his many friends a real surprise in machine performance and a new conception of automobile value when they come in to inspect the new models.

hood that the issue will not be passed on favorably. All of the townships are stepping out in the matter of providing better school facilities for their children and there is no doubt but that Scott township will join the procession.

Pa Newc noticed last evening that some of the trees are already appearing with their fall look as the leaves have turned from the bright and brilliant hues of green to their autumn reddish. Pa Newc has seen but one tree like this and wonders if it is an early bird or if fall is really here.

New Castle and airplanes are almost synonymous anymore. Most any day you can see one or two locally owned planes circling over the city like huge eagles. With three airports and more local planes than that New Castle is not at all behind in aerial development.

It won't be long. Pa Newc saw several men with top coats on last evening and the night before, which he believes was slightly cooler, brought out at least one man with an overcoat. When you see this you know that summer has gone.

Hale vs. Holmes

Senator Frederick Hale, chairman of the senate naval committee, and tenth ranking member of the senate in point of continuous service, is seeking his third term. His Democratic opponent is Herber E. Holmes of Lewiston. A bitter primary fight between Hale and Governor Ralph O. Brewster for the senatorial nomination left some ugly scars on the Republican state organization, but Brewster's appearance to preside at a huge Republican rally here last week.

Following a hurried visit to the state by National Chairman Hubert Work, was hailed as a symbol of the buried hatchet. Senator Charles Curtis, Republican vice-presidential nominee and Senator James E. Watson of Indiana, another wheelhorse of the G. O. P., have campaigned in the state for the Republican ticket within the last week. State Chairman Daniel E. Field today predicted a majority of 50,000 for the Republican gubernatorial nominee. Governor Brewster's majority in 1924 was but 36,000.

See G. O. P. Landslide

William Tudor Gardiner, Republican gubernatorial nominee, has waged his fight solely upon the state platform, which closely follows the national platform on the vital issues of the tariff, prosperity, waterways, and taxation.

Edward C. Moran, Jr., his Democratic opponent, has waged an uphill fight almost exclusively on the issue of exporting the surplus water-power electricity beyond the Maine borders. Moran's repeated challenges to Gardiner to debate the water-power issue have been neglected, the Republican nominee characterizing the challenge as "a trumped-up" issue.

Republicans count upon Gardiner's tremendous personal popularity to roll up a tidal wave of votes for the Republican ticket.

Prosperous times are those in which almost everybody has a few thousand dollars to lose bucking Wall street.

viously committed himself by saying in reply to persistent questions as to whether the Anglo-French naval agreement was consistent with the renunciation of war pact:

"Yes, it is consistent. I don't think it has anything to do with the pact one way or another."

Highly pleased with the completion of his duties abroad, Kellogg was most emphatic in his desire to make it clear that the pact should not be used for political purposes in the coming campaign.

Throngs Greet 125th Birthday Of Mercer Town

Secretary Of Labor James J. Davis Is Guest Of Honor At Celebration

CELEBRATION WILL CLOSE ON SATURDAY

MERCER, Pa., Sept. 12.—One hundred and twenty five years ago, the first hardy pioneers to push beyond the Alleghenies with any intention of making the then far west their permanent homes came to Mercer county, and settled around the site of what is now Mercer, the county seat. They were hardy. Nothing daunted them. They were the first of a new race, among the first who anticipated the great exodus to the west.

And today every resident of the pretty little town is proud: proud because their forefathers were unafraid: and proud because of the fact that, after a century and a quarter, the same founding is celebrated in such a fitting manner.

Secretary Davis Here

Secretary of Labor James J. Davis, whose first visit to Mercer was some 45 years ago, was the speaker of the opening day. Tuesday evening he gave his address at the conclusion of one of the greatest parades this little town has ever seen. Immediately after speaking, Secretary Davis left for New Castle, where he boarded a special train which carried Calvin Coolidge back to the White House at Washington, D. C.

Before the celebration got under way, Secretary Davis was the guest of Frank P. Filer at a luncheon which took place in the Hulmes Hotel. Others in the party were: Mayor Frank Gilbert of Sharon, Judge James A. McLaughry of Mercer, John Pew, of Mercer, Congressman T. C. Cochran, Frank McCandless of Pittsburgh, C. F. Morrow of Wampum, D. O. Davies, New Castle councilman, and L. R. Rickard of Mercer.

Biggest Day

Tuesday was the biggest day of the celebration which will continue until Saturday evening. The town and the public square were a mass of gay decorations. Many floats, mostly of historic interest made up the mile long parade, and everyone who could get out lined the streets while the mammoth procession passed. Miss Mary Van Hatta, "Miss Mercer" sat on a high throne flanked by two pretty girls, and drew continuous applause as she rode along.

Visitors came from Oil City, Greenville, New Castle, Sharon, Grove City, Butler and other surrounding communities.

Hundreds stood at the public square and heard Secretary Davis declare that the greatest problem of today is that of population. The government's main problem, he stated, was finding employment for the 2,000,000 persons who become of working age each year.

Big Problem

"Wealth in the United States is easy to acquire," he continued. "But it is not so easy to use it for the good of the soul. With the development of the machine, employment has been taken away from thousands, and this country must be so organized that it can use these men in other industry.

"The wheat combine in Kansas," he concluded, "has eliminated 200,000 workers in the wheat fields. Railroads are using 250,000 less men and manufacturing 3,500,000, and yet, in the case of the latter, the increase in production is 25 per cent."

The committee on arrangement of the celebration consists of: James Wallace, Will S. Moffat, Levi Fike, Mrs. R. B. Montgomery, Mrs. Ted Burnett, and Theodore Craig. J. W. Byers was chief marshal of the parade with W. Courtney, Harold Horr and R. Weller as his assistants.

Singing for an hour at the top of your voice will do away with all troubles about breathing, it is said. The chances are that the neighbors will attend to your breathing long before the hour is up.—The Portsmouth Daily Times.

New Castle Man Surprised Way He Was Helped

Feels Fine for First Time In About Two Years; Gives Credit To Ten Herbs

"The benefits that Ten Herbs gave me were more than I ever expected," was the recent statement of Mr. Joseph F. Cullen, 15 West South street, New Castle, to the Ten Herbs Man, who is at Eckerd's of New Castle,

MR. JOSEPH F. CULLEN

Inc., 30 East Washington street, this city, where he is daily demonstrating this great natural medicine to crowds of men and women of all ages and stations in life.

"About two years ago my digestion went back on me," continued Mr. Cullen, who is 62 years of age. "Everything I ate caused gas to form, and this made me feel as though I would vomit. For 20 minutes or half an hour every morning I would vomit a thick, black mucus, which had formed during the night. This exertion left me weak and exhausted. My liver was inactive, and I seemed to be filled with bile, causing me to have a tired feeling. My rest was broken at night by having to arise several times.

"I read about Ten Herbs and made up my mind to give it a fair trial. The relief your medicine gave me was surprising. What I wish to emphasize most is the clearing of my throat of that thick, black mucus, so that when I arise in the morning, instead of coughing, retching, or vomiting, I feel fine and ready for work. My digestion has been improved—can enjoy a regular meal without aches and pains or other distress. I can get a good night's rest, as I have been relieved of having to arise. I feel bright and cheerful and fit for a full day's work. It is without hesitation that I recommend Ten Herbs to the public."

The Ten Herbs Man is at Eckerd's of New Castle, Inc., 30 East Washington street, this city, where he is daily meeting the public and explaining the merits of this medicine. He will be glad to tell you how to take it to get the best results.
